

Central High School

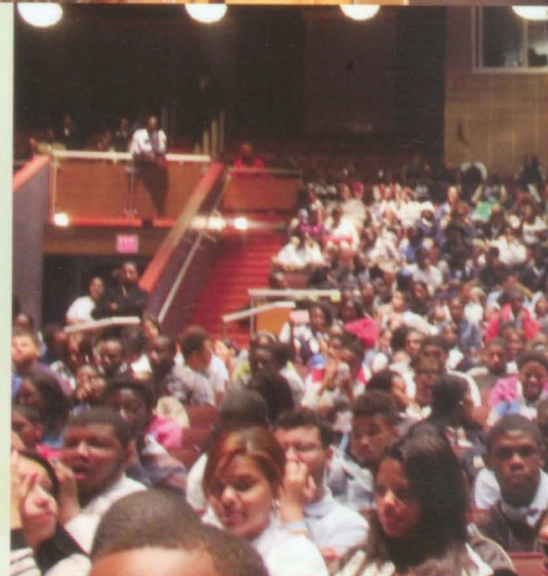

CHS Class of 2013

Minister Louis Farrakhan

On September 25th 2012, Minister Louis Farrakhan came to Central High School to speak to our students.

It was a moving, powerful and inspirational speech that touched the students and united them in thought...

Thoughts about who we are, how do we perceive ourselves and where we can go.

After the Minister Farrakhan spoke, the students wrote about some of the things that he said that impacted them the most...

Throughout this yearbook you will find some of their responses to the following quotes:

"There is no CAN'T if we were created in the image of GOD."

"The agent of change is you!"

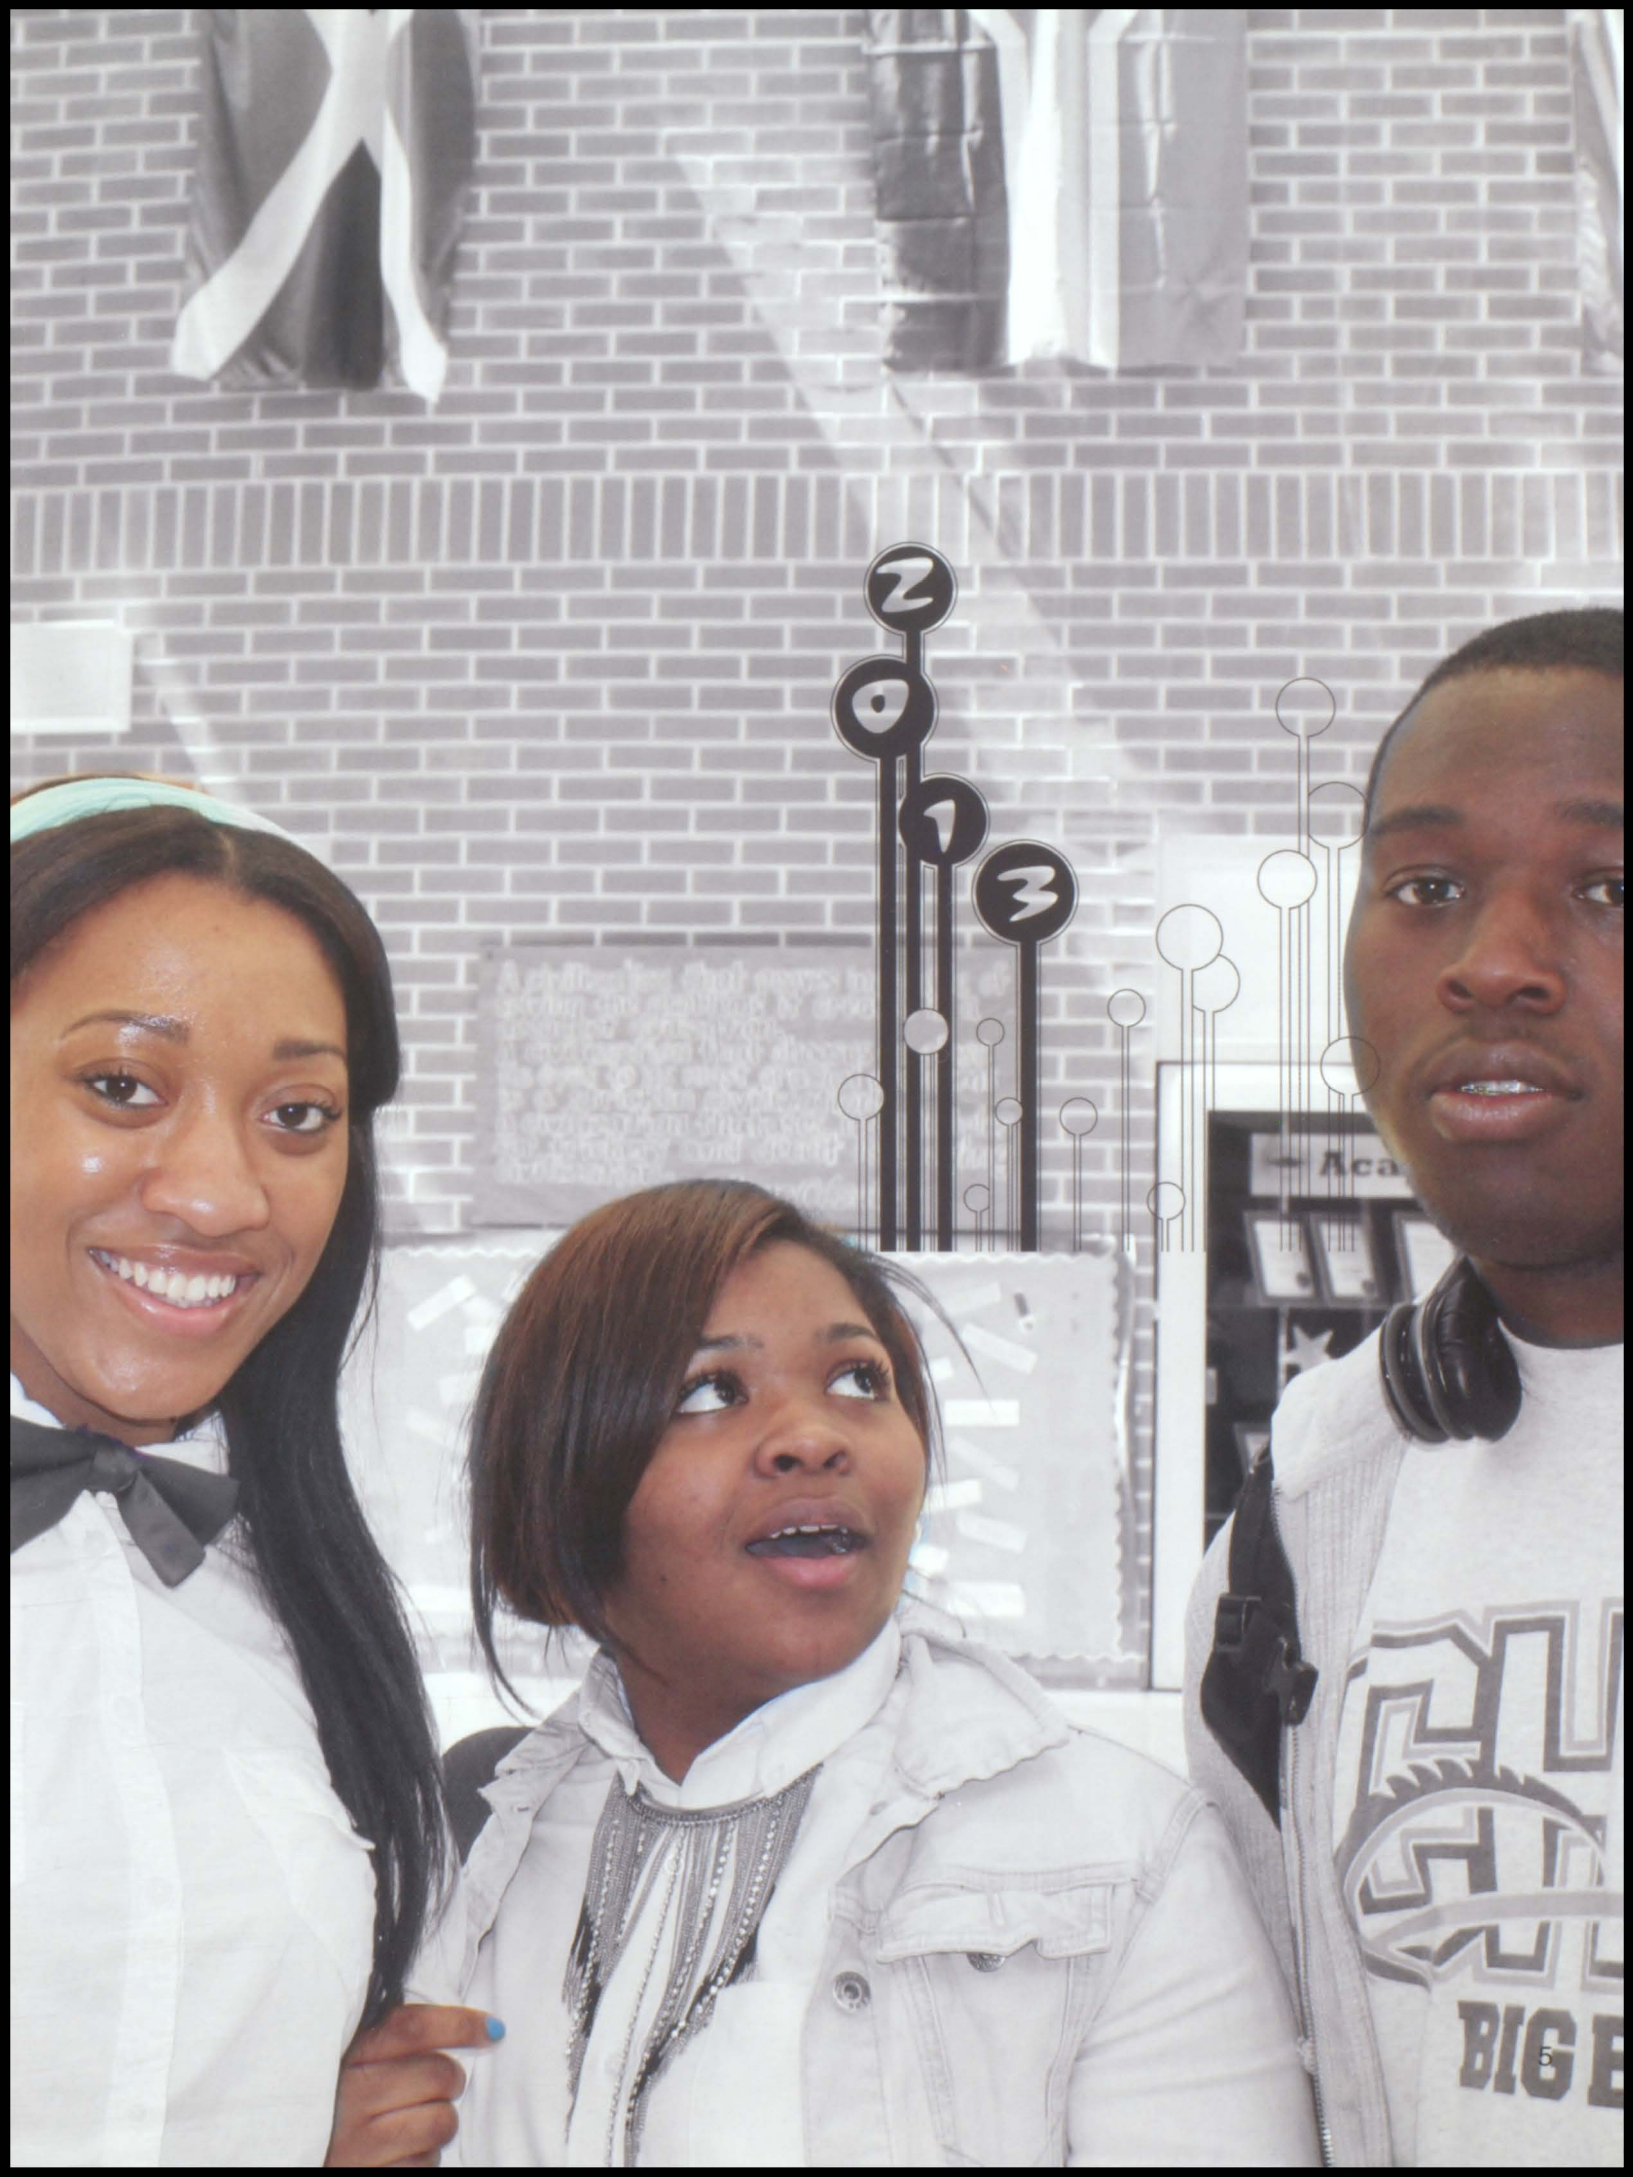

The CHS class of 2013 is insightful, smart, powerful and can truly achieve any goals that they put their minds to.

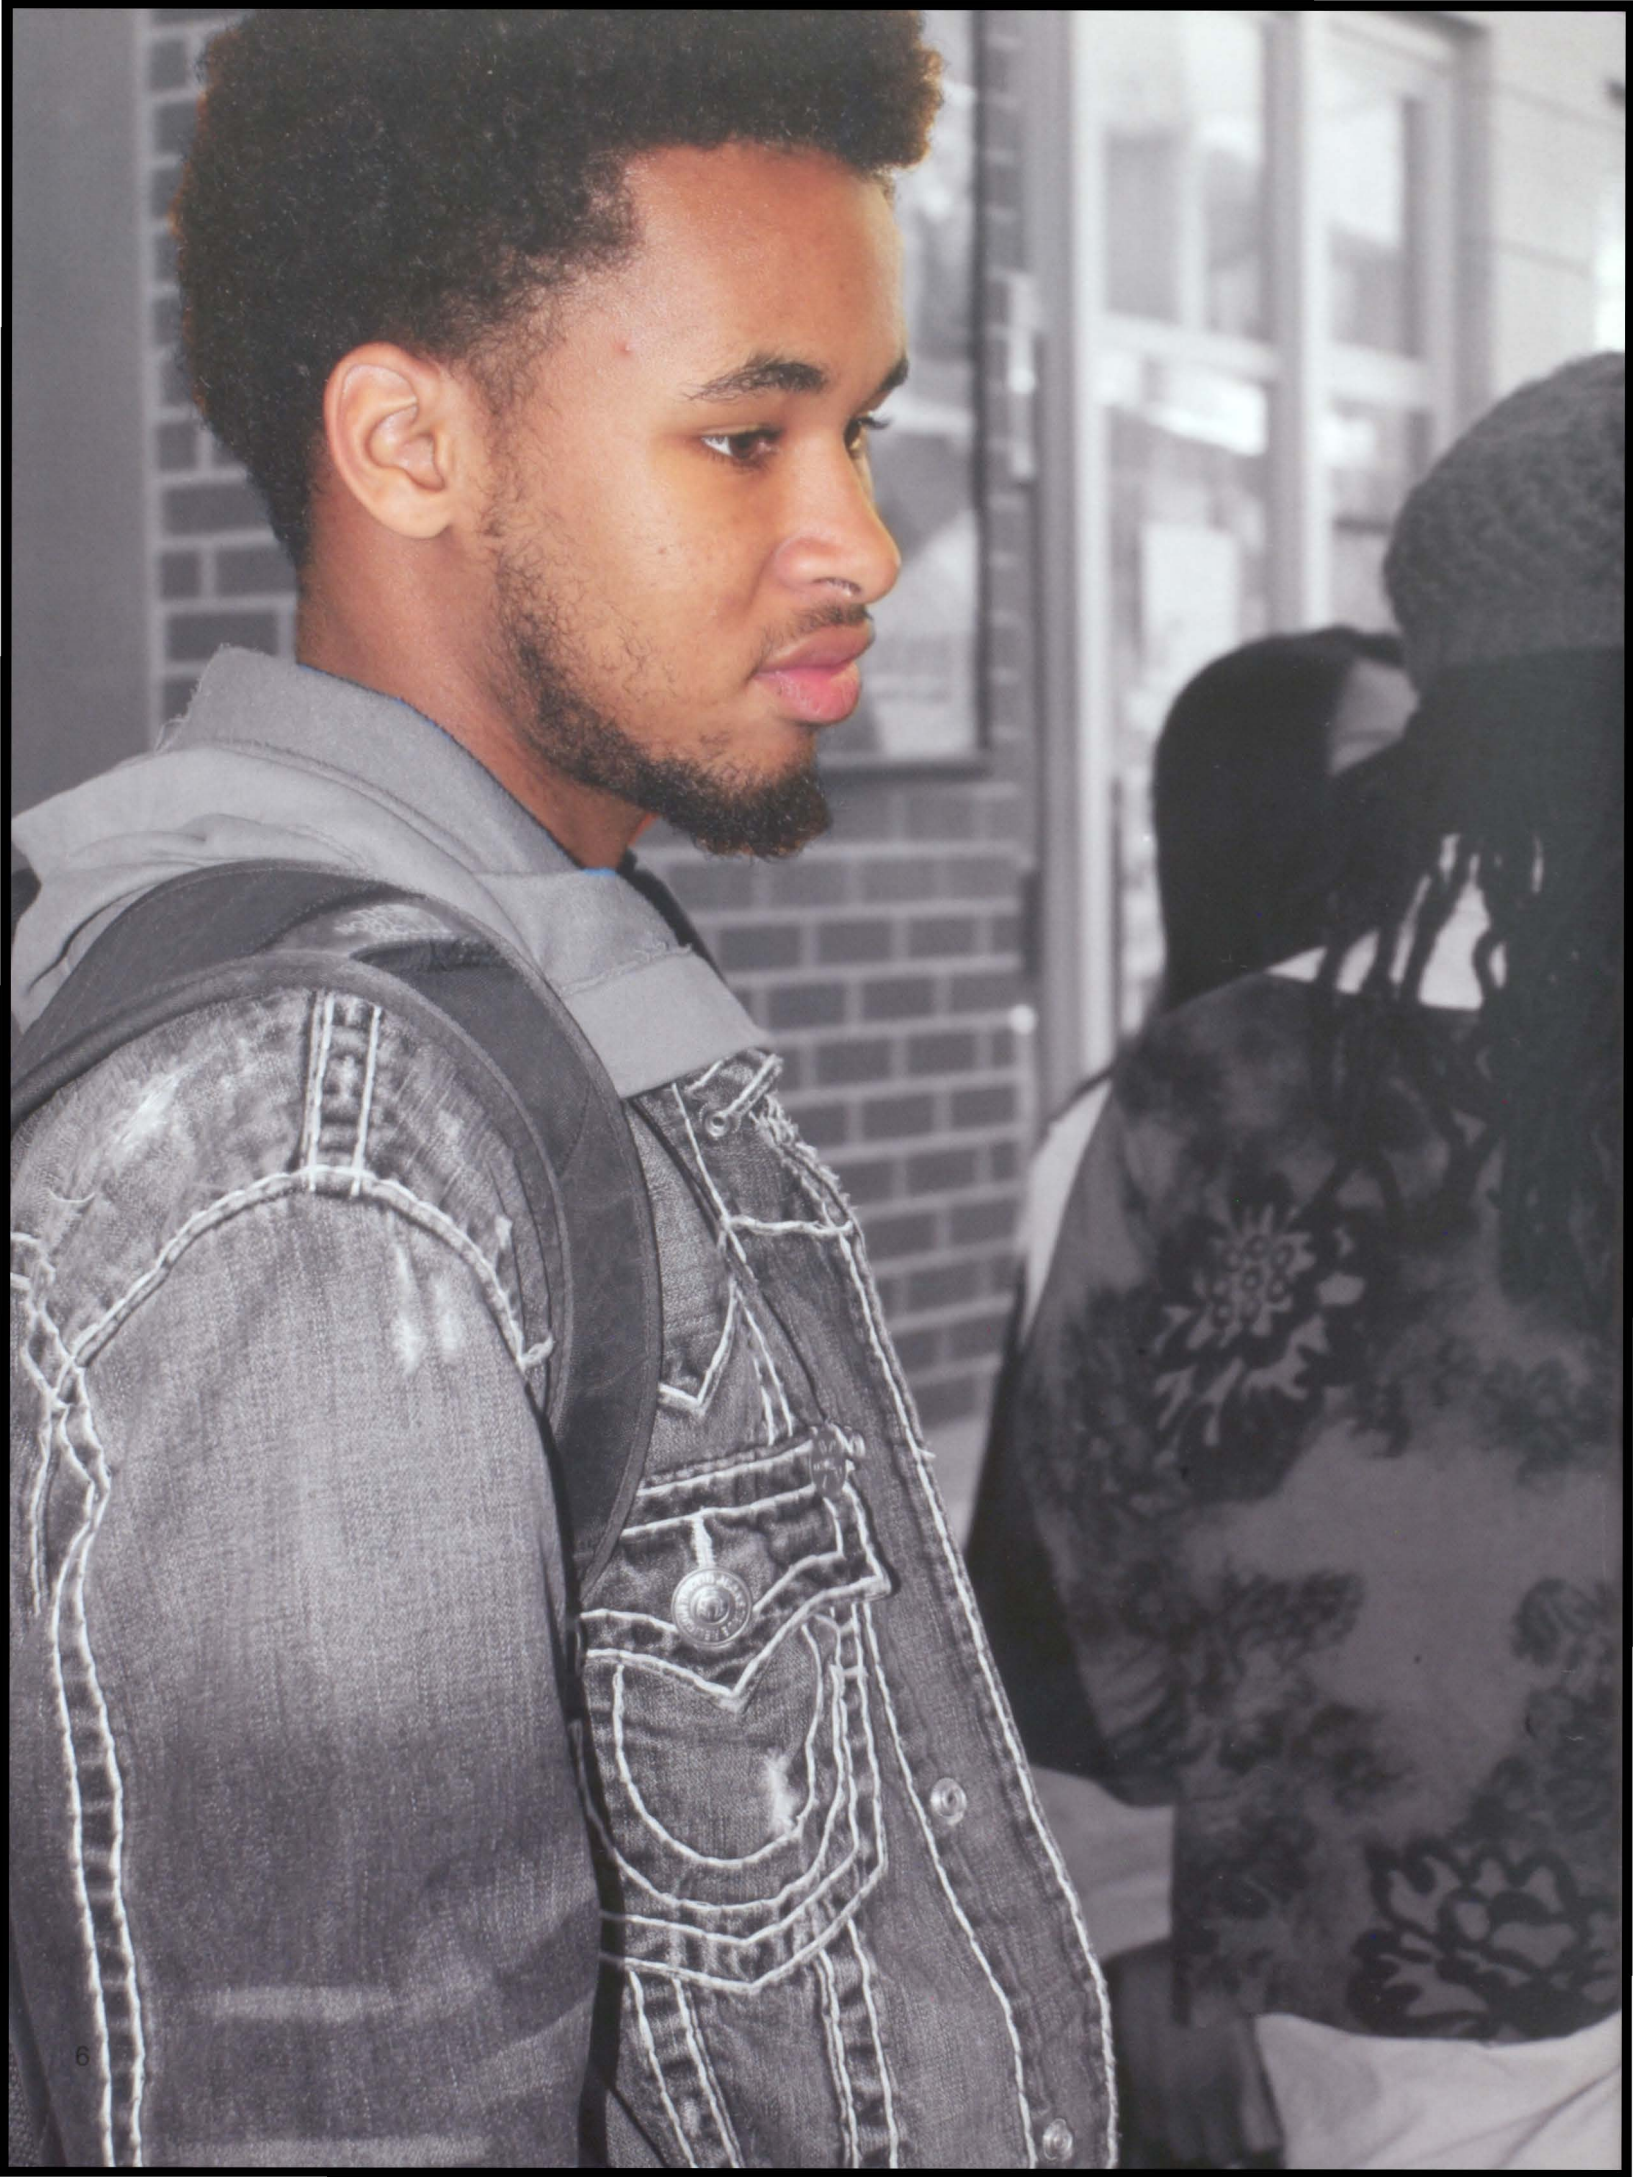

Thank you for touching us with your presences for the past four years!

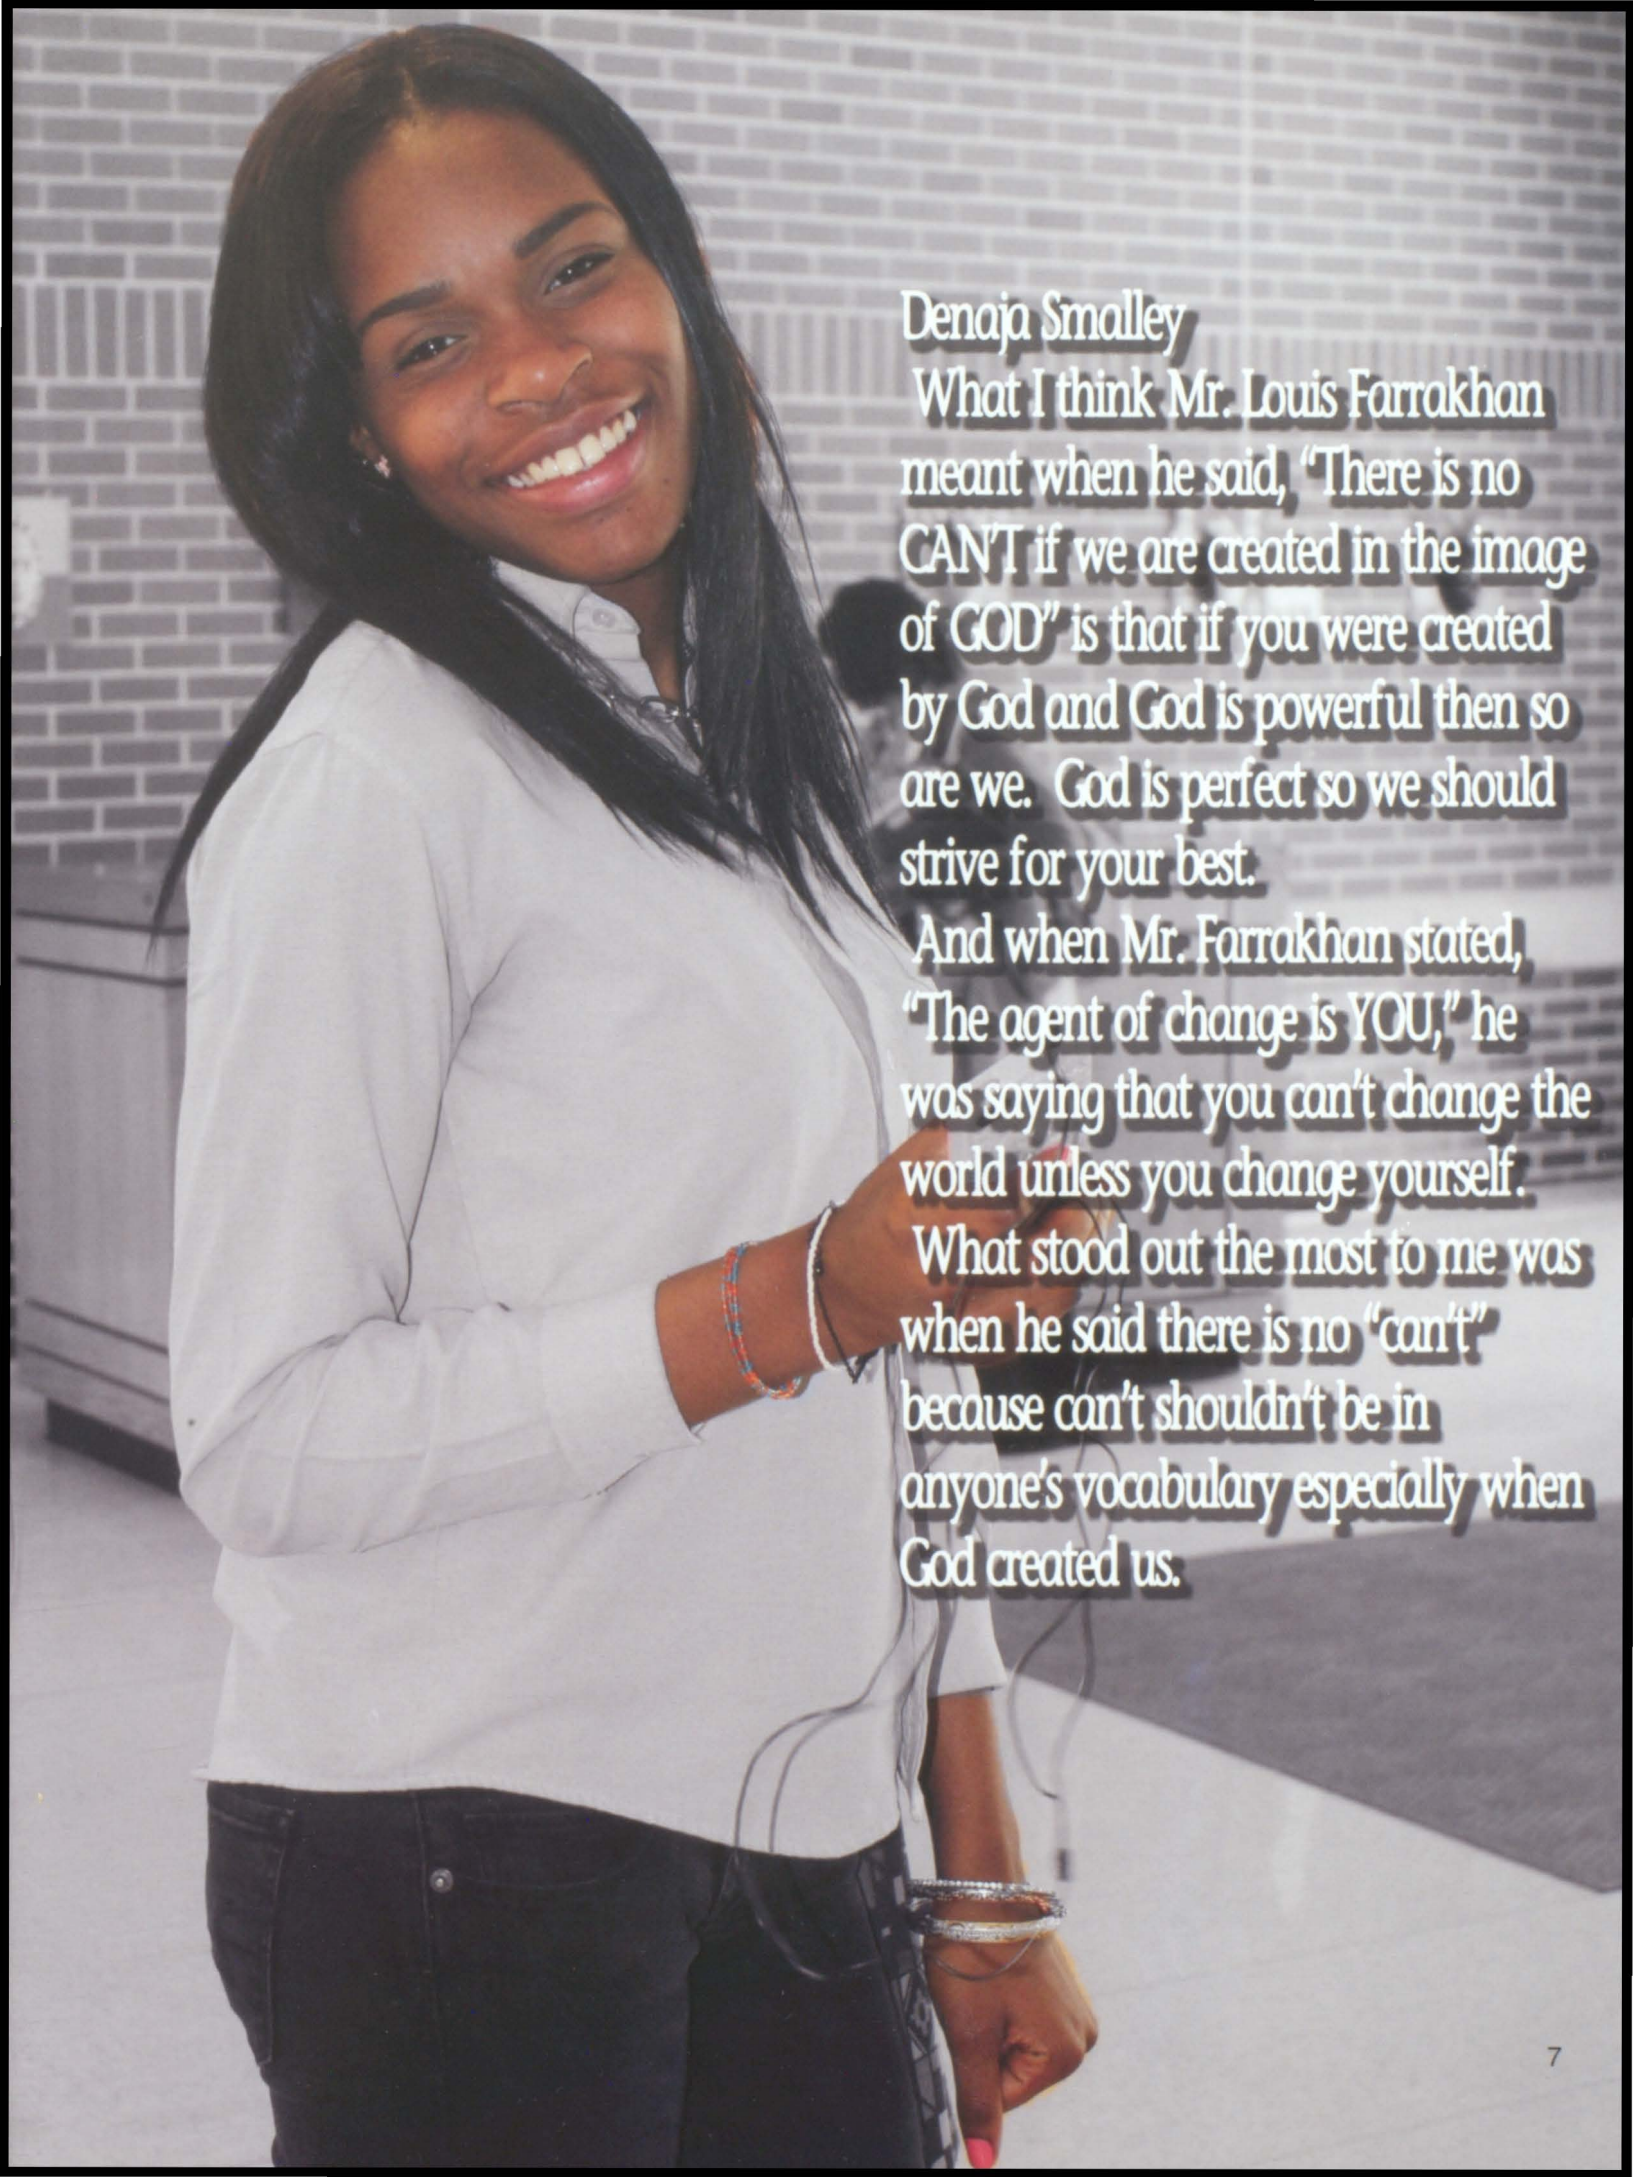

BIG BLUE!

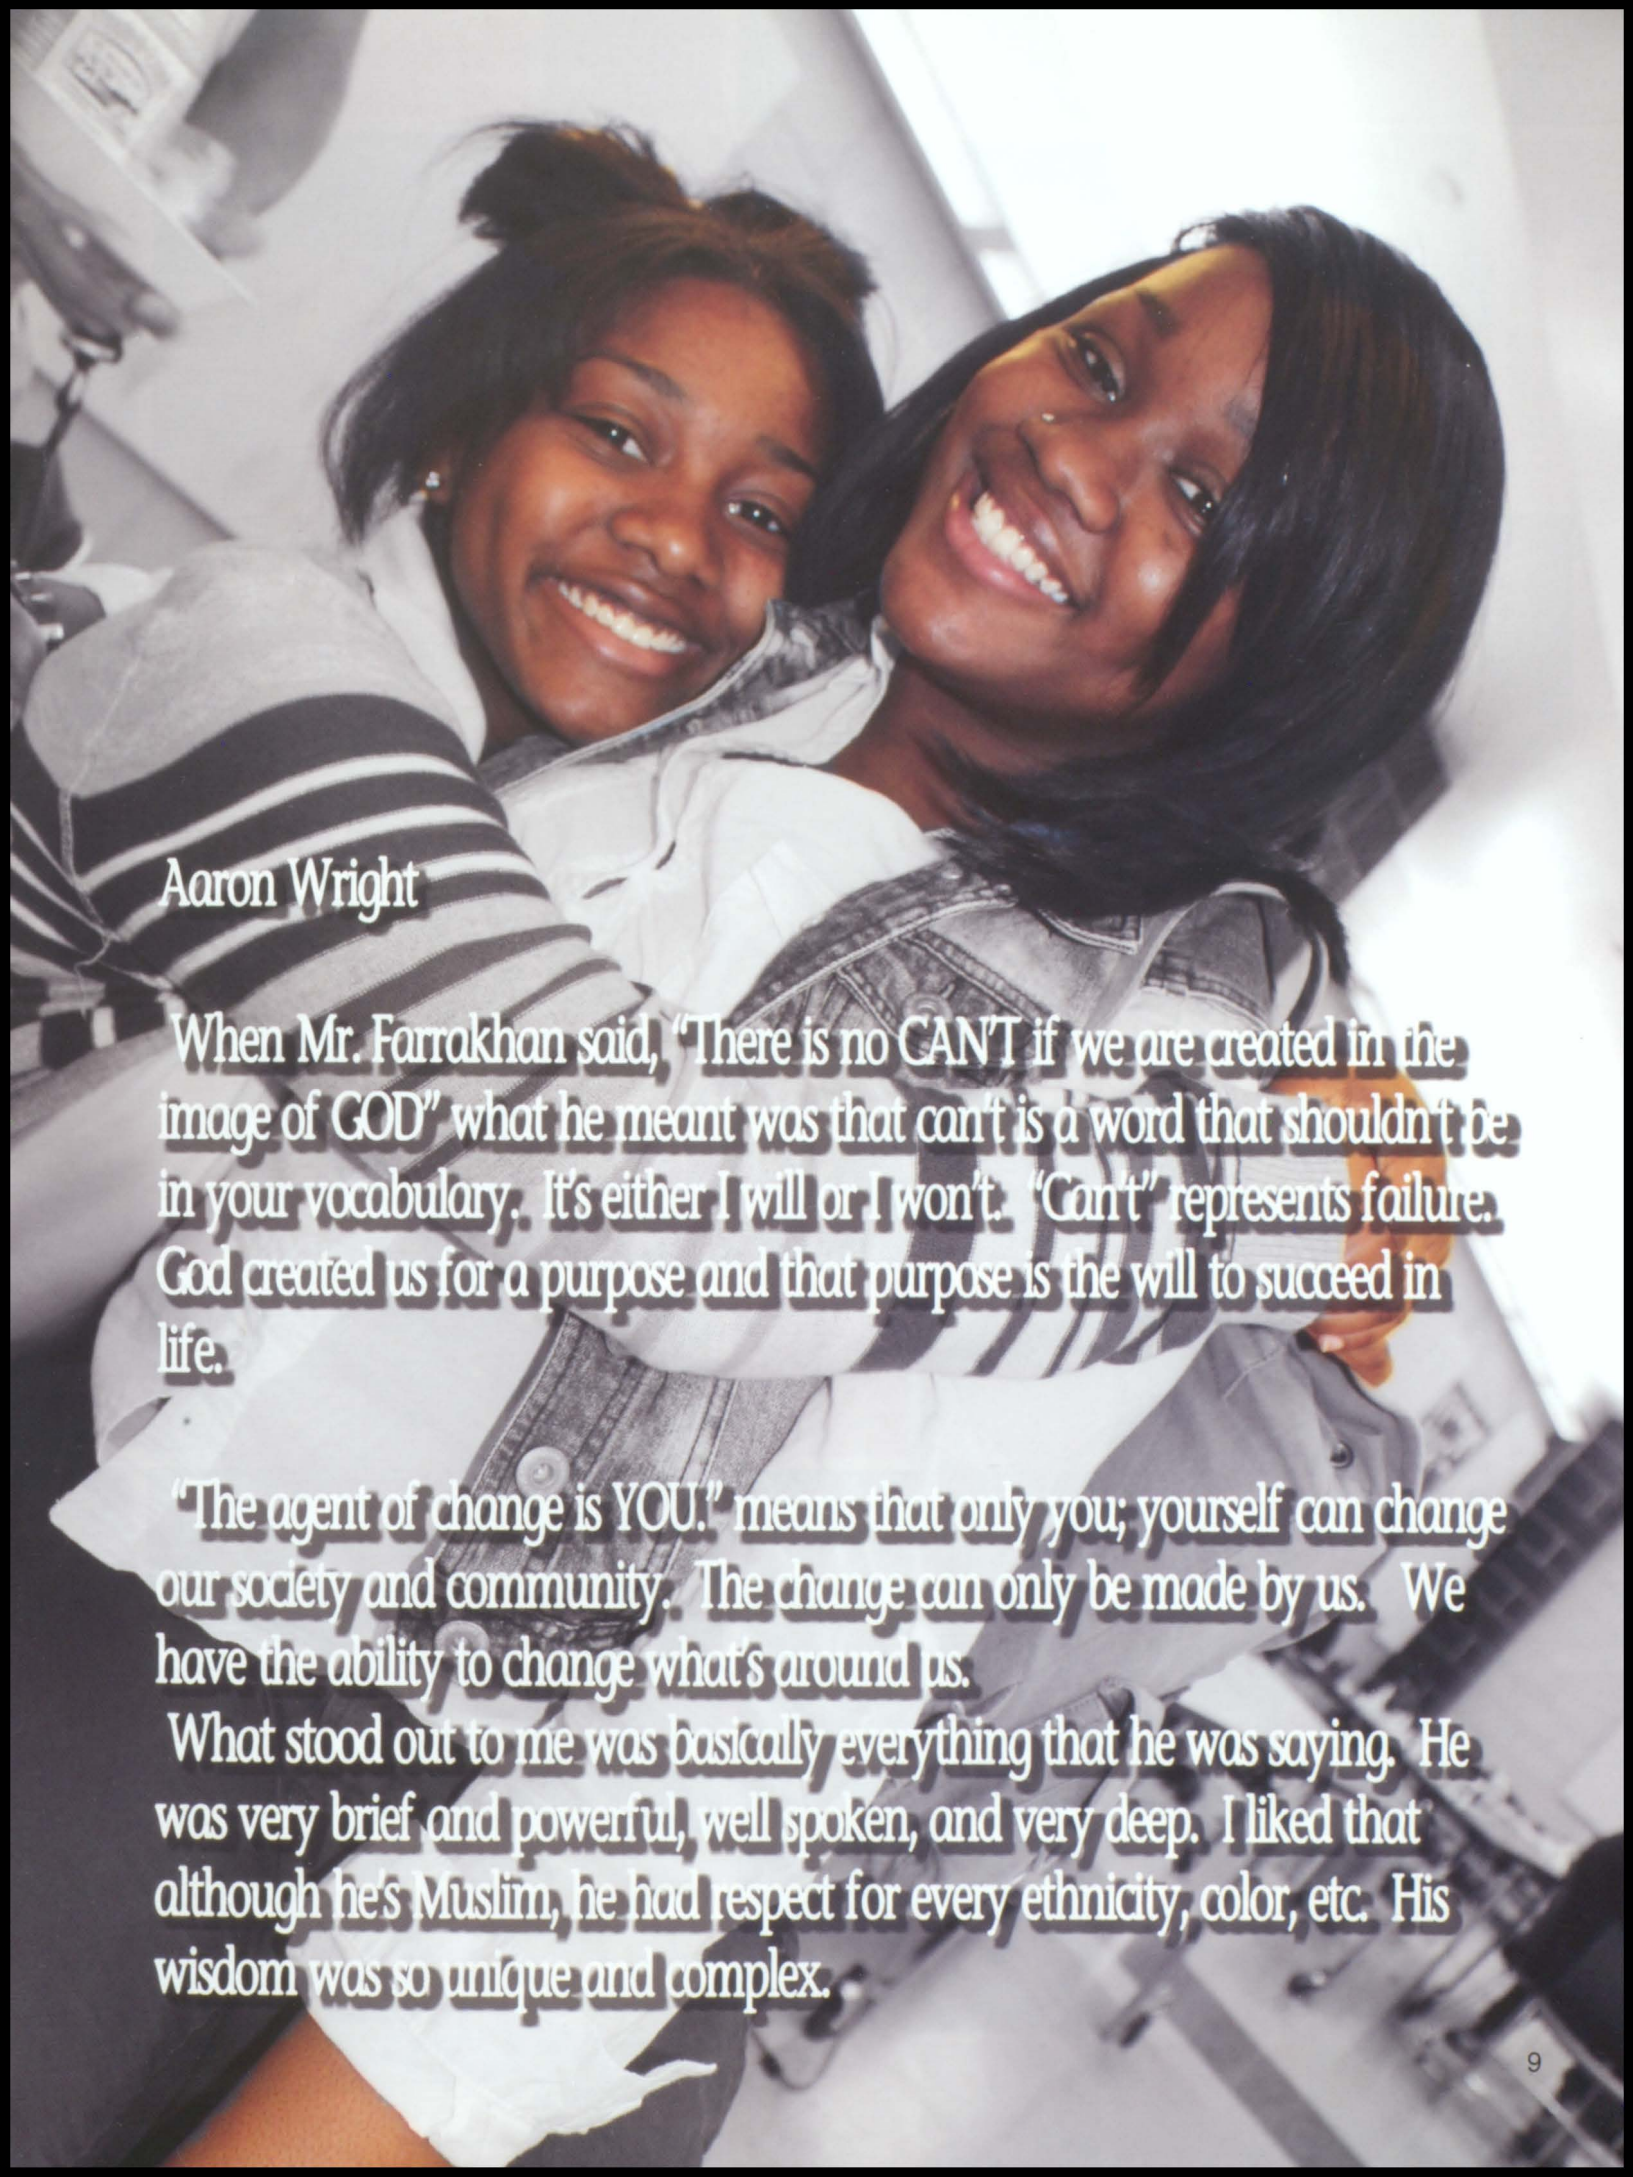

Denaja Smalley

What I think Mr. Louis Farrakhan meant when he said, "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD" is that if you were created by God and God is powerful then so are we. God is perfect so we should strive for your best.

And when Mr. Farrakhan stated, "The agent of change is YOU," he was saying that you can't change the world unless you change yourself.

What stood out the most to me was when he said there is no "can't" because can't shouldn't be in anyone's vocabulary especially when God created us.

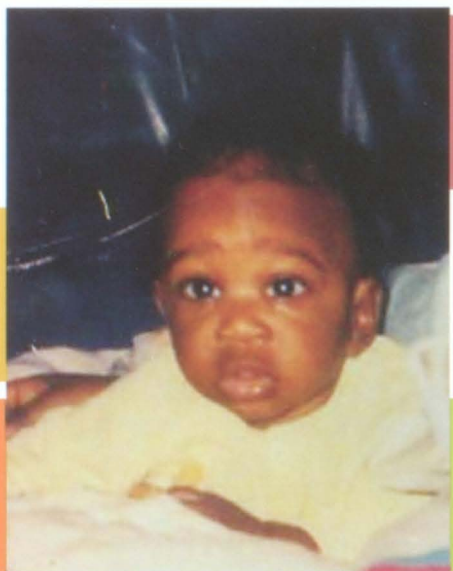

A photograph of two young Black women smiling and hugging. The woman on the left is wearing a white and black striped shirt, and the woman on the right is wearing a denim jacket over a white shirt. They are both looking towards the camera.

Aaron Wright

When Mr. Farrakhan said, "There is no CANT if we are created in the image of GOD" what he meant was that can't is a word that shouldn't be in your vocabulary. It's either I will or I won't. "Can't" represents failure. God created us for a purpose and that purpose is the will to succeed in life.

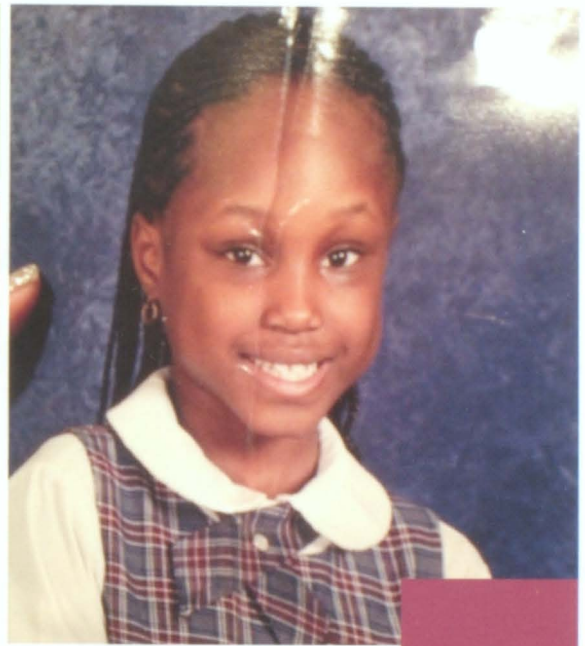

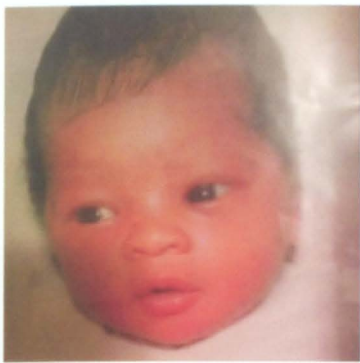

"The agent of change is YOU." means that only you; yourself can change our society and community. The change can only be made by us. We have the ability to change what's around us.

What stood out to me was basically everything that he was saying. He was very brief and powerful, well spoken, and very deep. I liked that although he's Muslim, he had respect for every ethnicity, color, etc. His wisdom was so unique and complex.

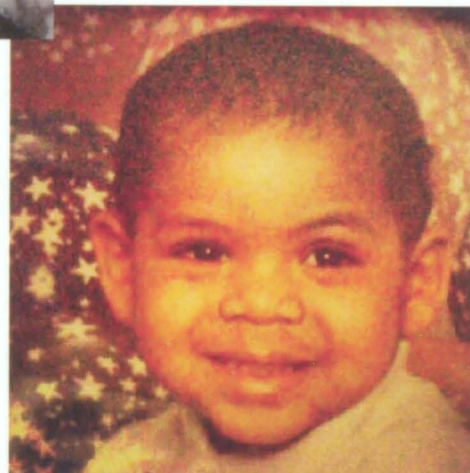

Guess

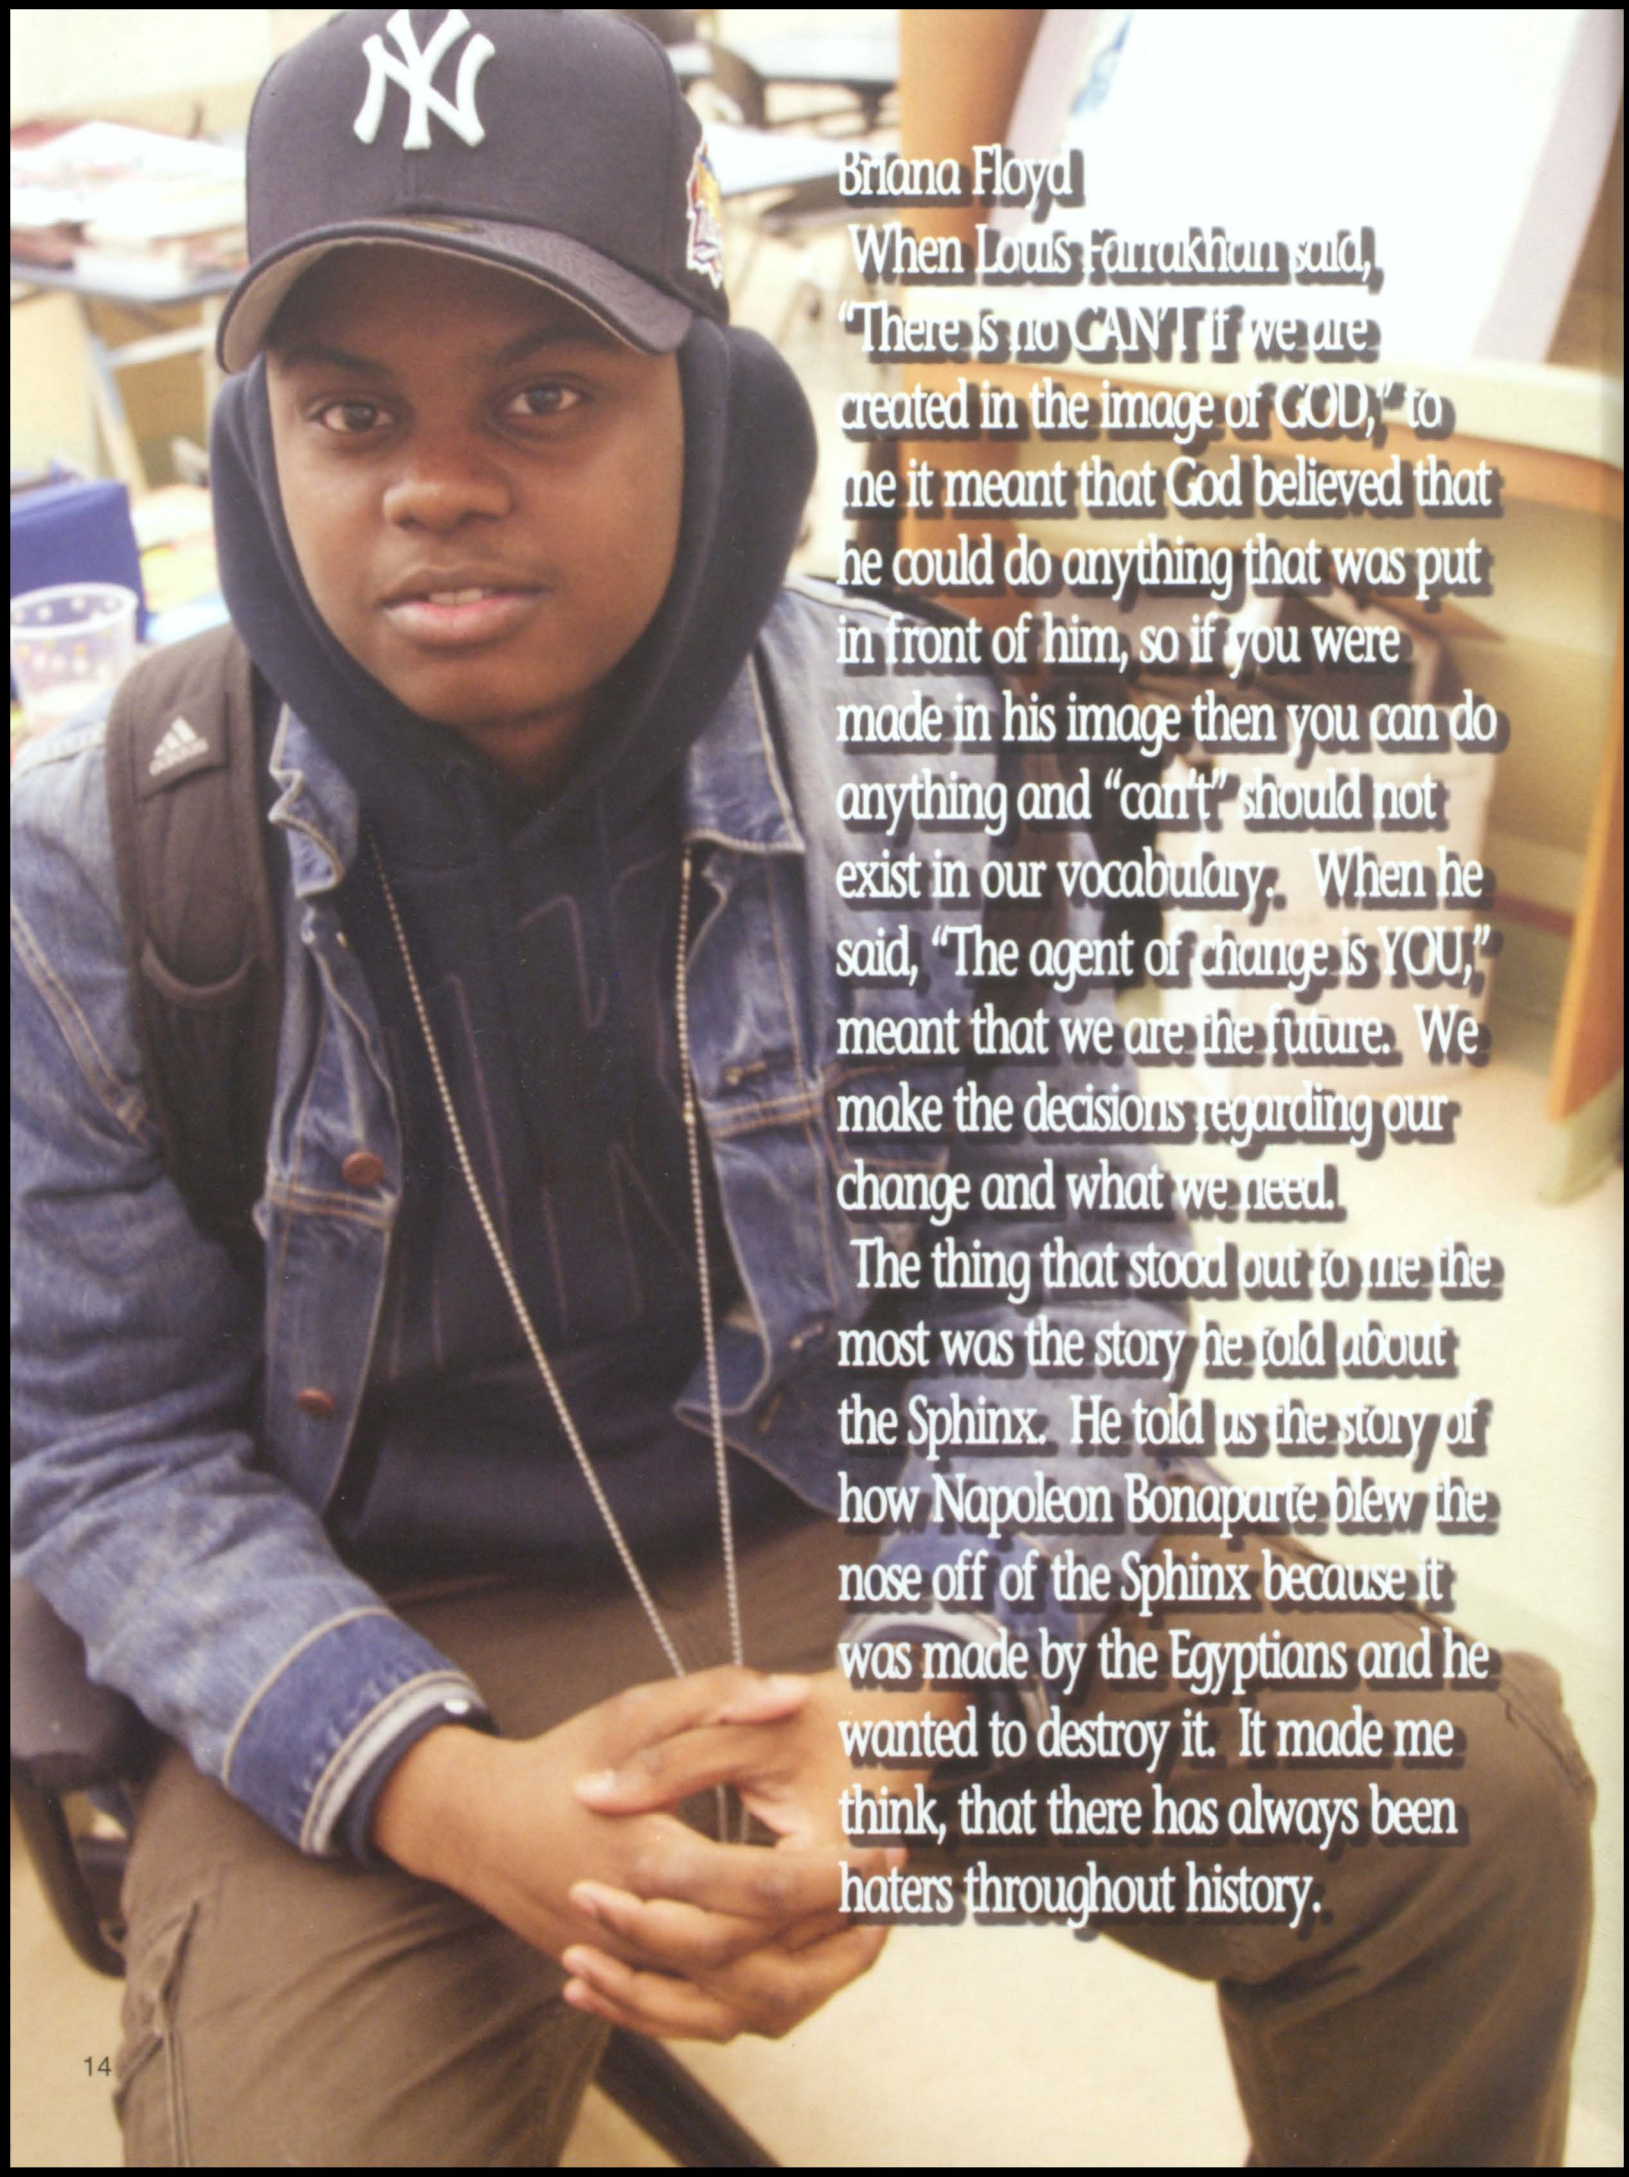

Who?

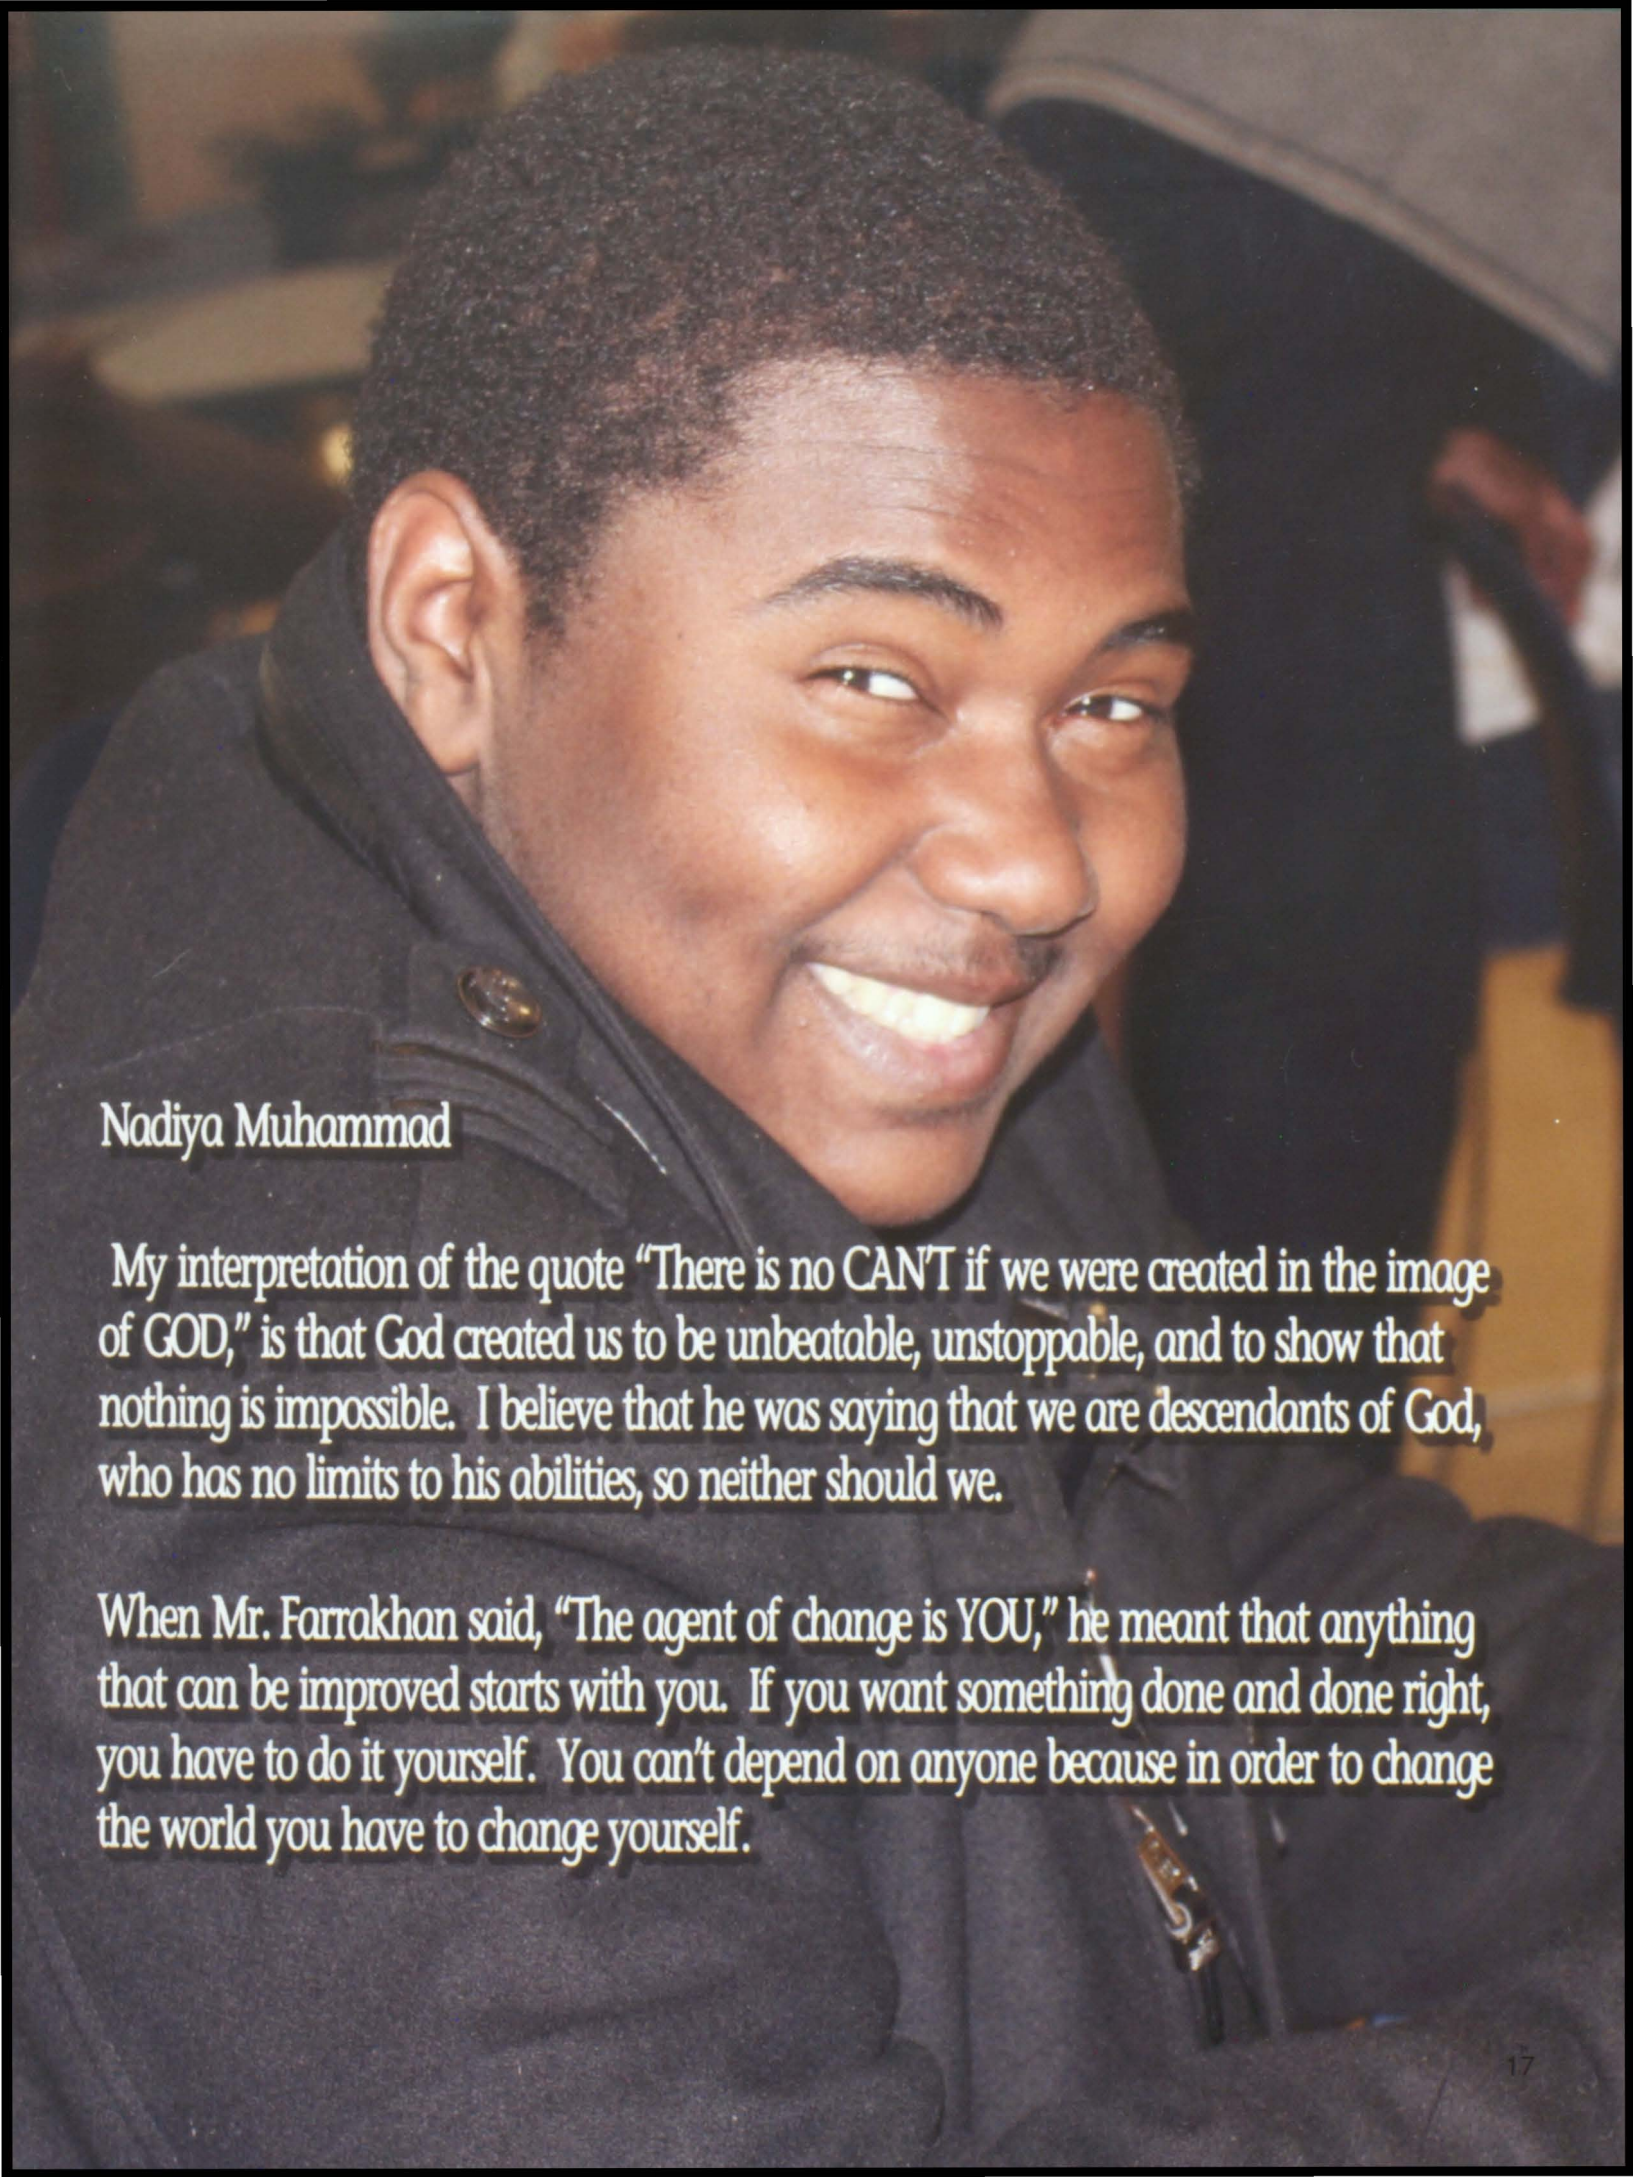

Briana Floyd

When Louis Farrakhan said, "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD," to me it meant that God believed that he could do anything that was put in front of him, so if you were made in his image then you can do anything and "can't" should not exist in our vocabulary. When he said, "The agent of change is YOU," meant that we are the future. We make the decisions regarding our change and what we need.

The thing that stood out to me the most was the story he told about the Sphinx. He told us the story of how Napoleon Bonaparte blew the nose off of the Sphinx because it was made by the Egyptians and he wanted to destroy it. It made me think, that there has always been haters throughout history.

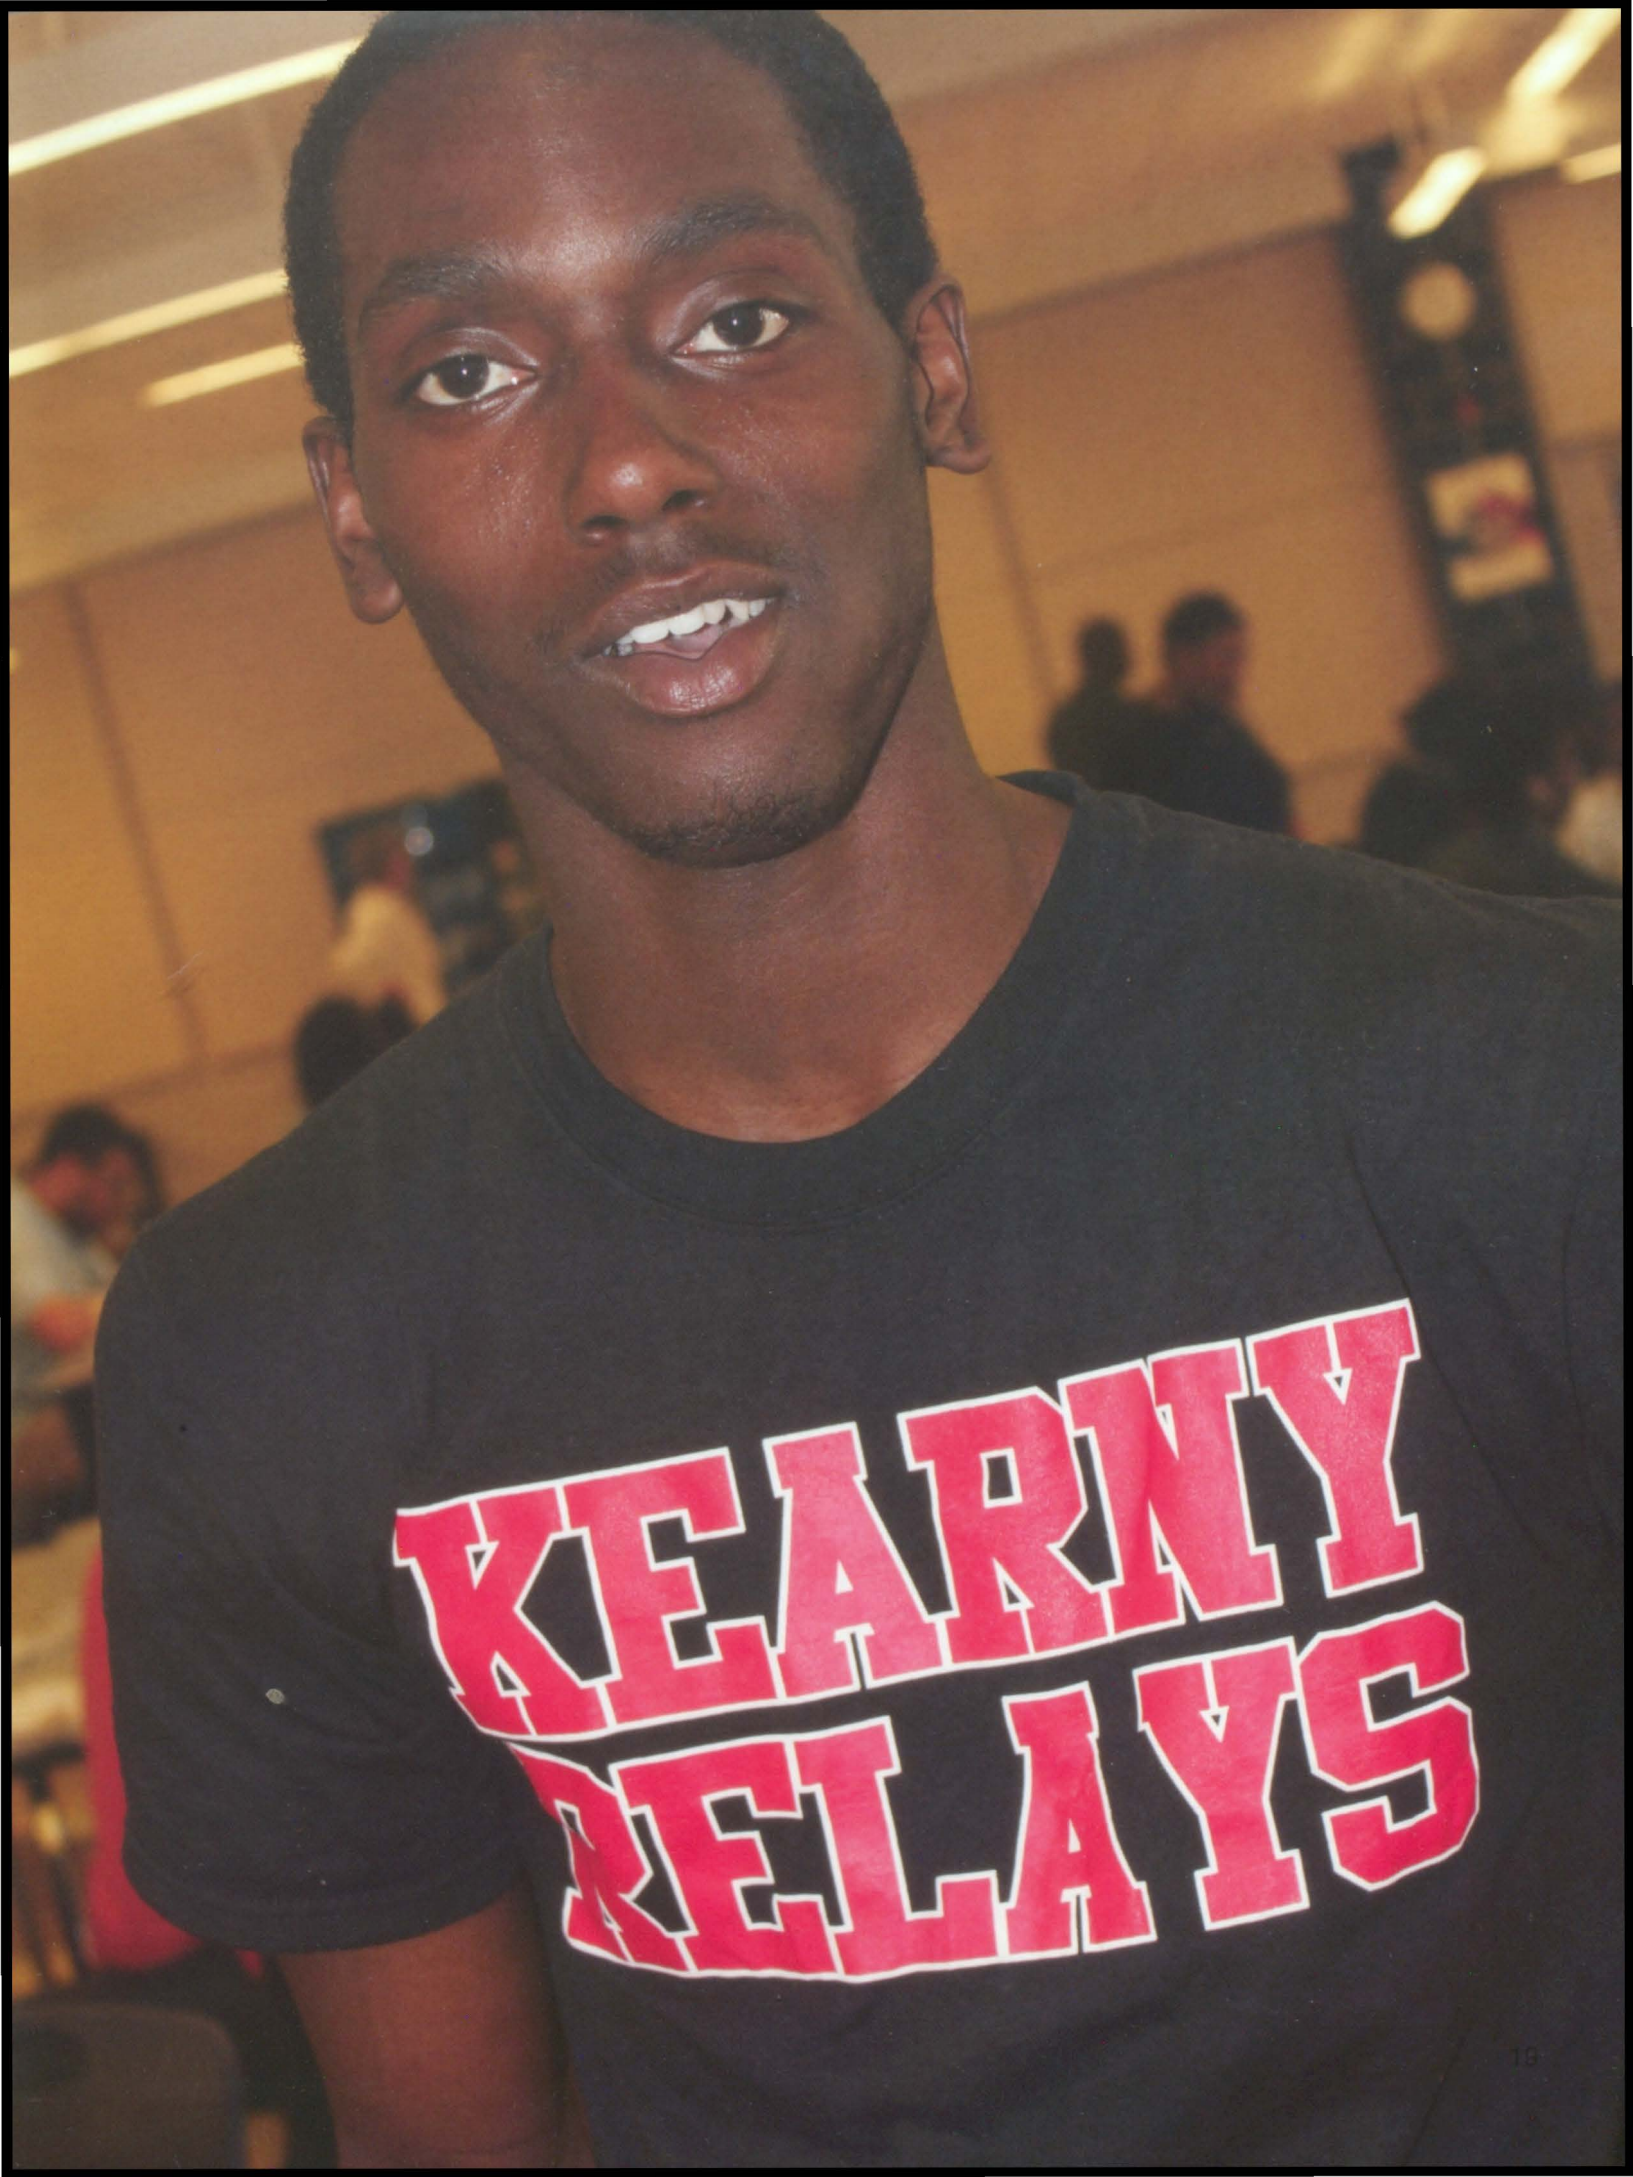

Nadiya Muhammad

My interpretation of the quote "There is no CANT if we were created in the image of GOD," is that God created us to be unbeatable, unstoppable, and to show that nothing is impossible. I believe that he was saying that we are descendants of God, who has no limits to his abilities, so neither should we.

When Mr. Farrakhan said, "The agent of change is YOU," he meant that anything that can be improved starts with you. If you want something done and done right, you have to do it yourself. You can't depend on anyone because in order to change the world you have to change yourself.

Tiffany Williams

When Mr. Louis Farrakhan said "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD" what I think he meant was that "can't" shouldn't be in our vocabulary because we are a reflection of God. He is perfect, so we should work to our full potential, and never feel that we are not capable of achieving or reaching our goals.

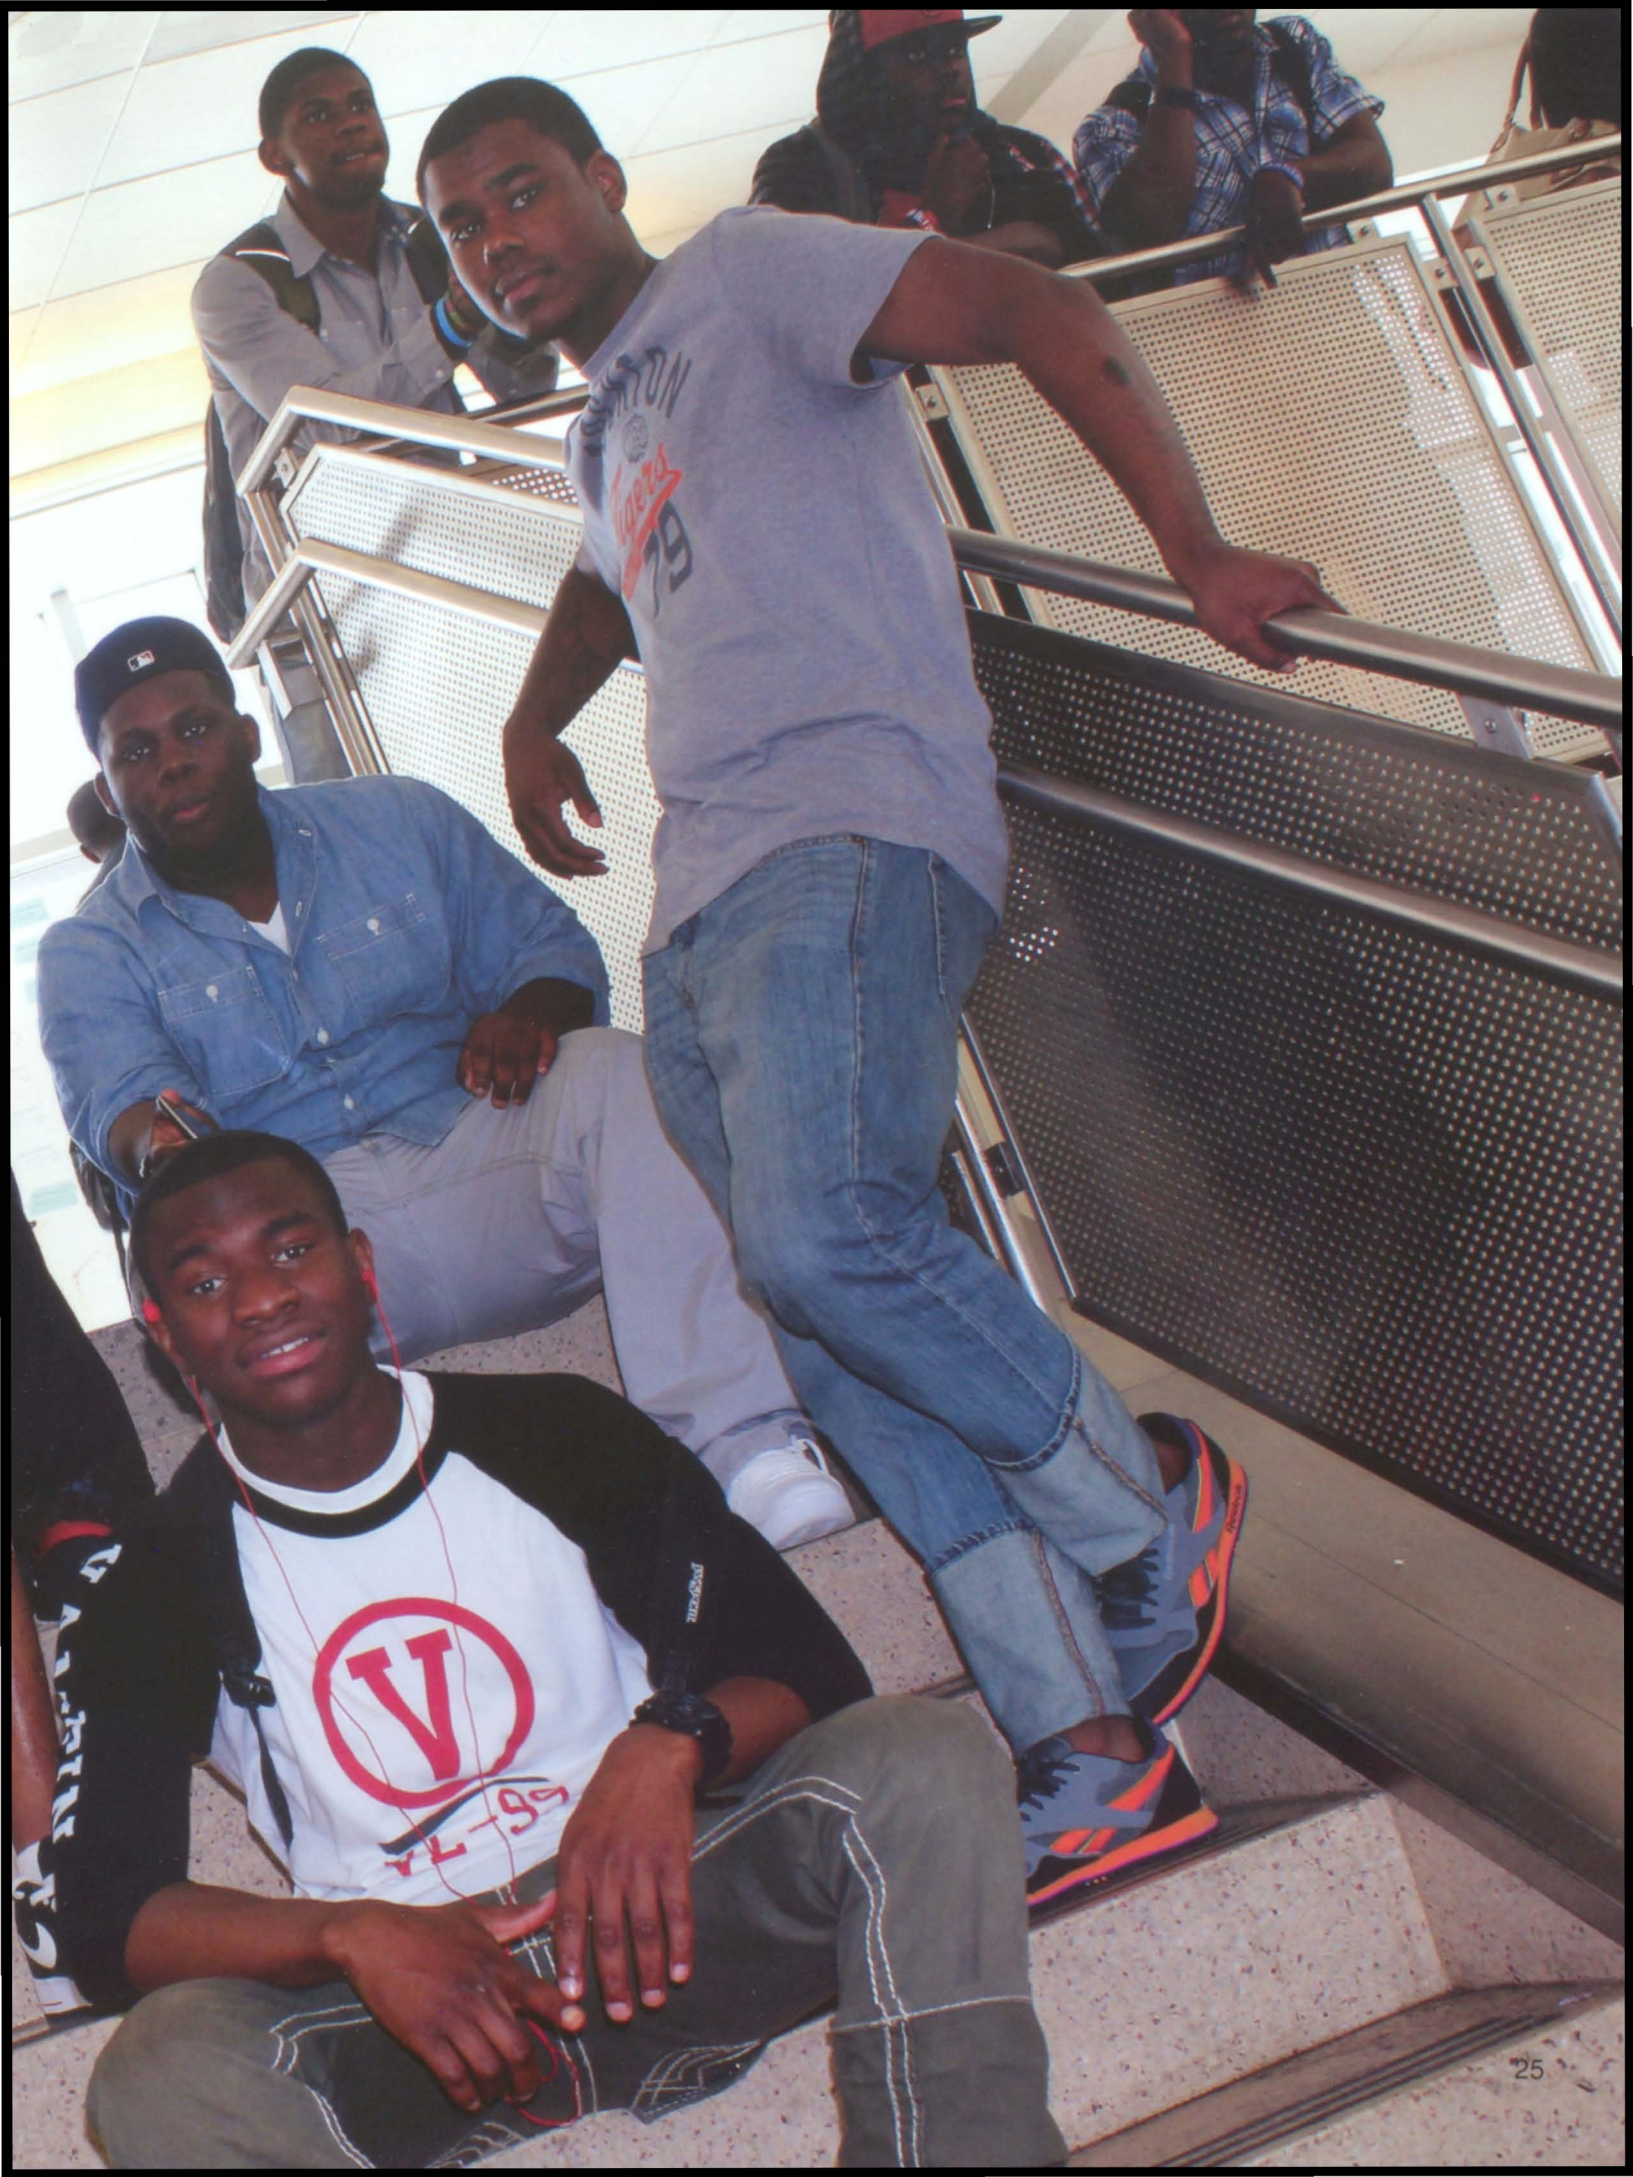

When he said "The agent of change is YOU" what he meant was that we, as young African Americans are the chosen generation. If we put our mind on the things we want to accomplish, we will be able to make a change and represent something positive in the world.

What Mr. Louis Farrakhan meant his quote "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD" is that God put us on this Earth not to just give up by saying, "can't" because we can do anything if we try and put our mind to it. God put us here to make a difference and not let situations make us give up or quit.

When he said, "The agent of change is YOU," he meant we are the agents who can make the difference.

What stood out the most to me was what Mr. Farrakhan said about how every different race and language came from the slave master. Also, when he asked us if we all came from Africa, how could we come from a place we've never been to?

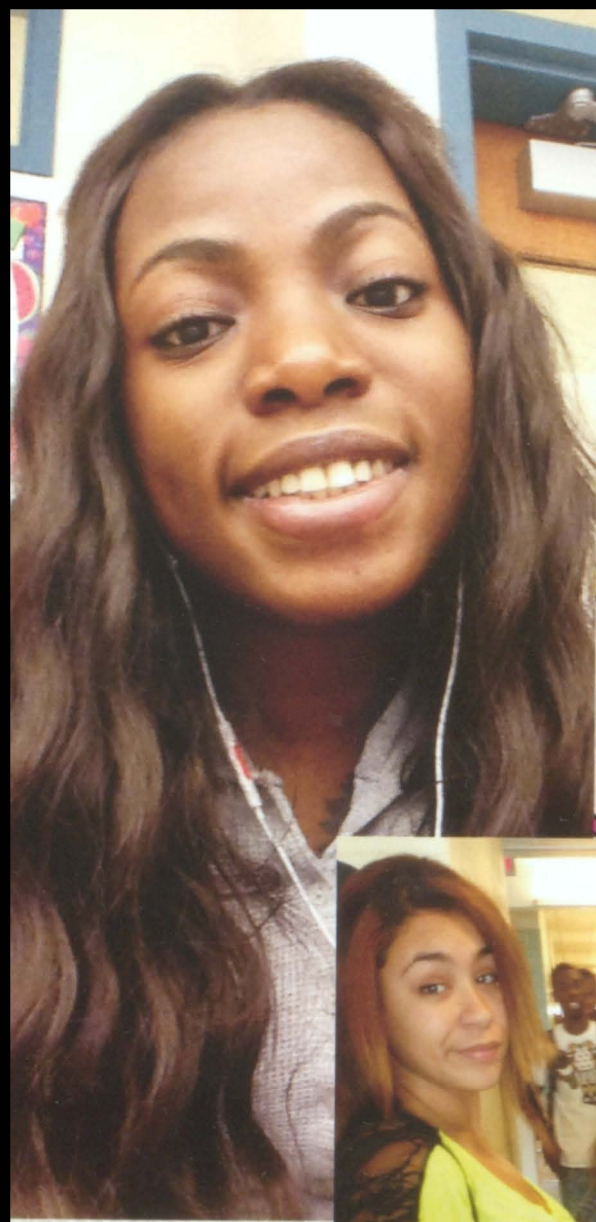

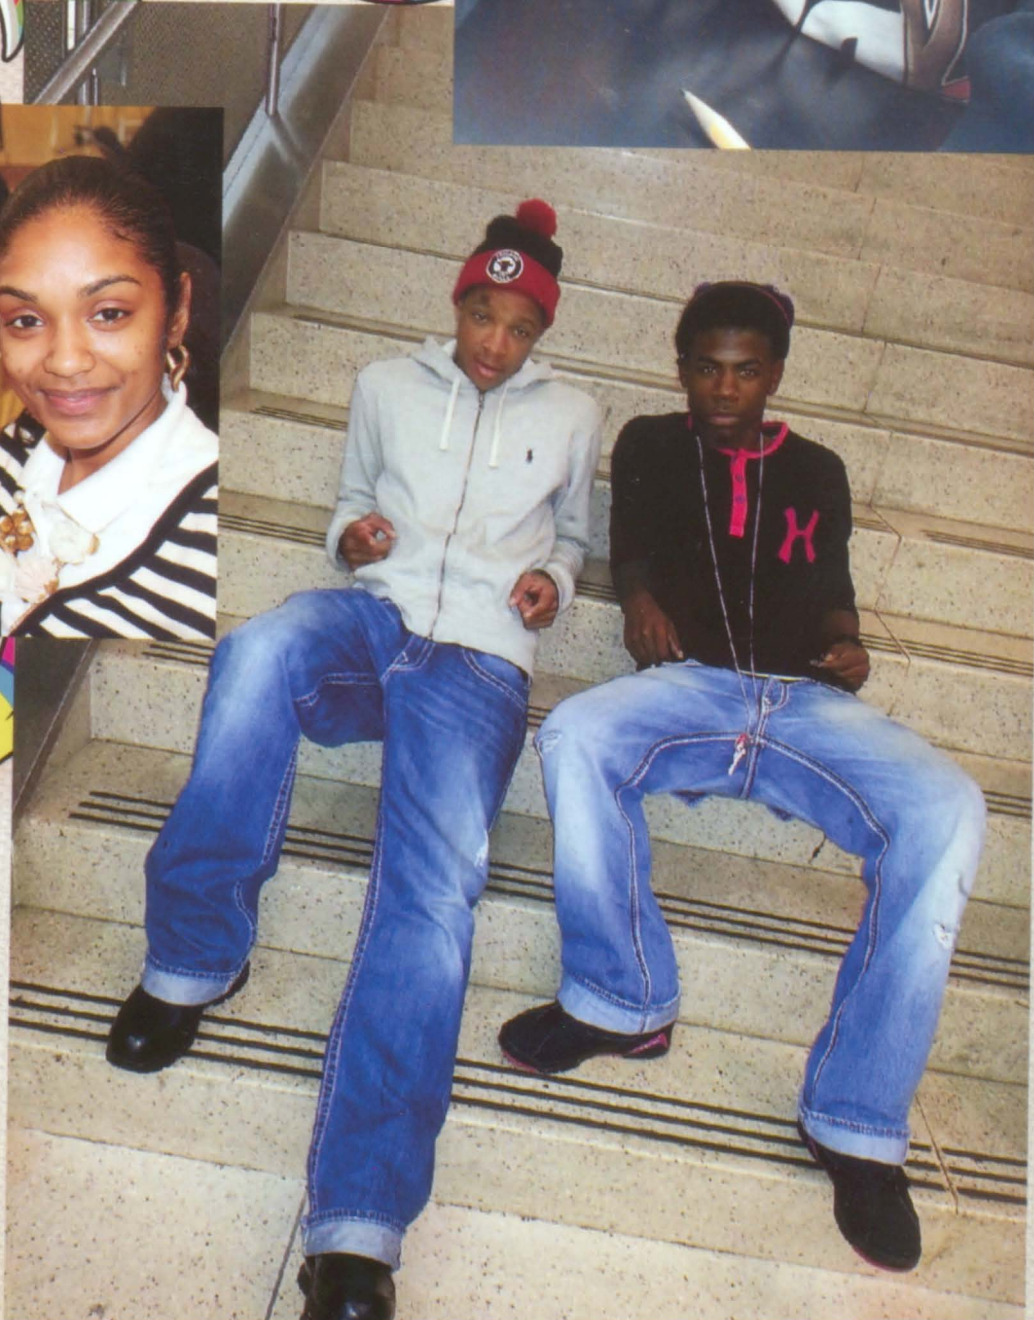

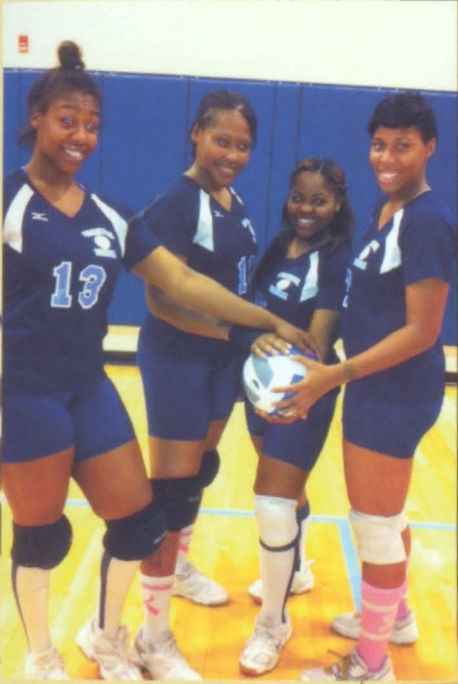

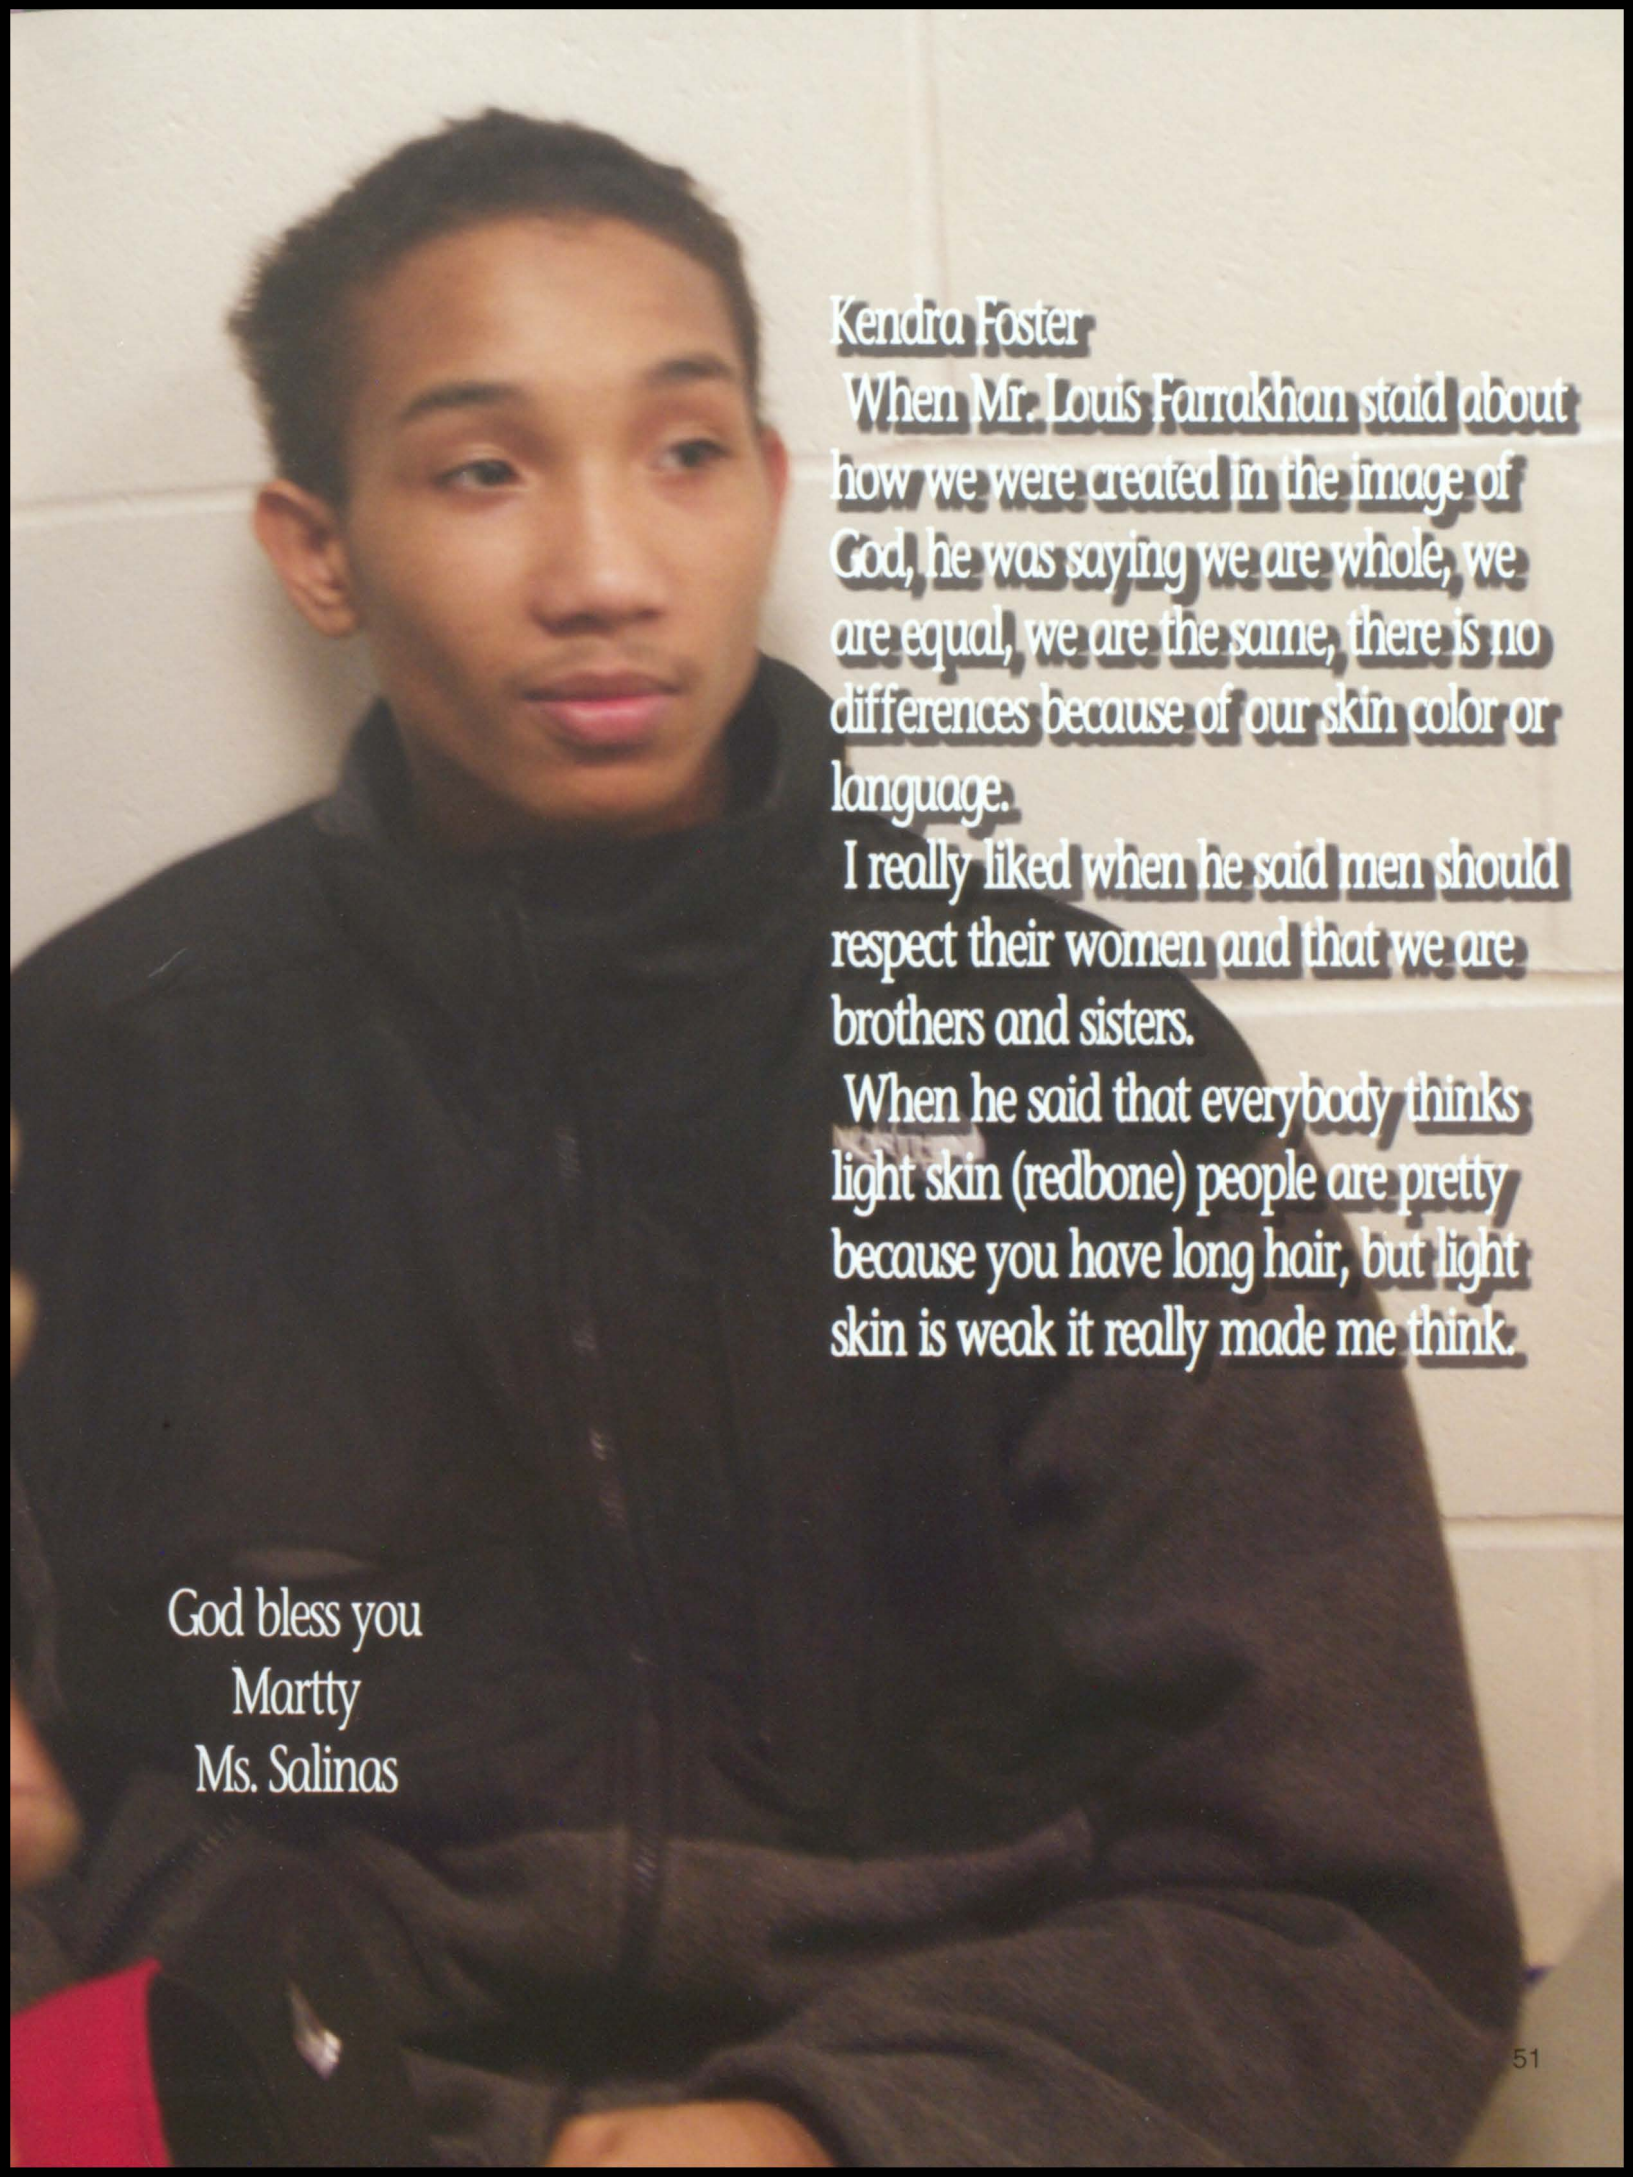

Kendra Foster

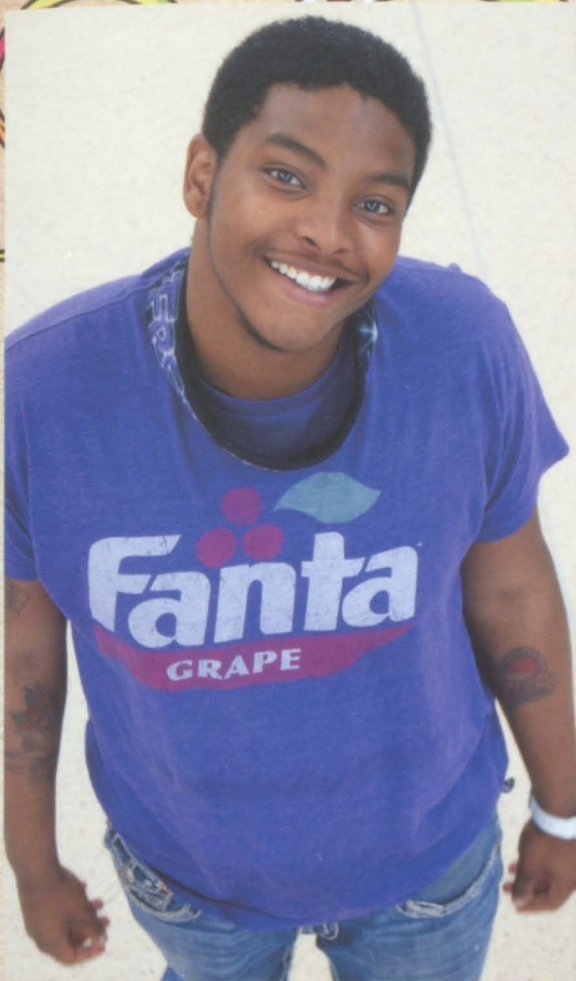

When Mr. Louis Farrakhan staid about how we were created in the image of God, he was saying we are whole, we are equal, we are the same, there is no differences because of our skin color or language.

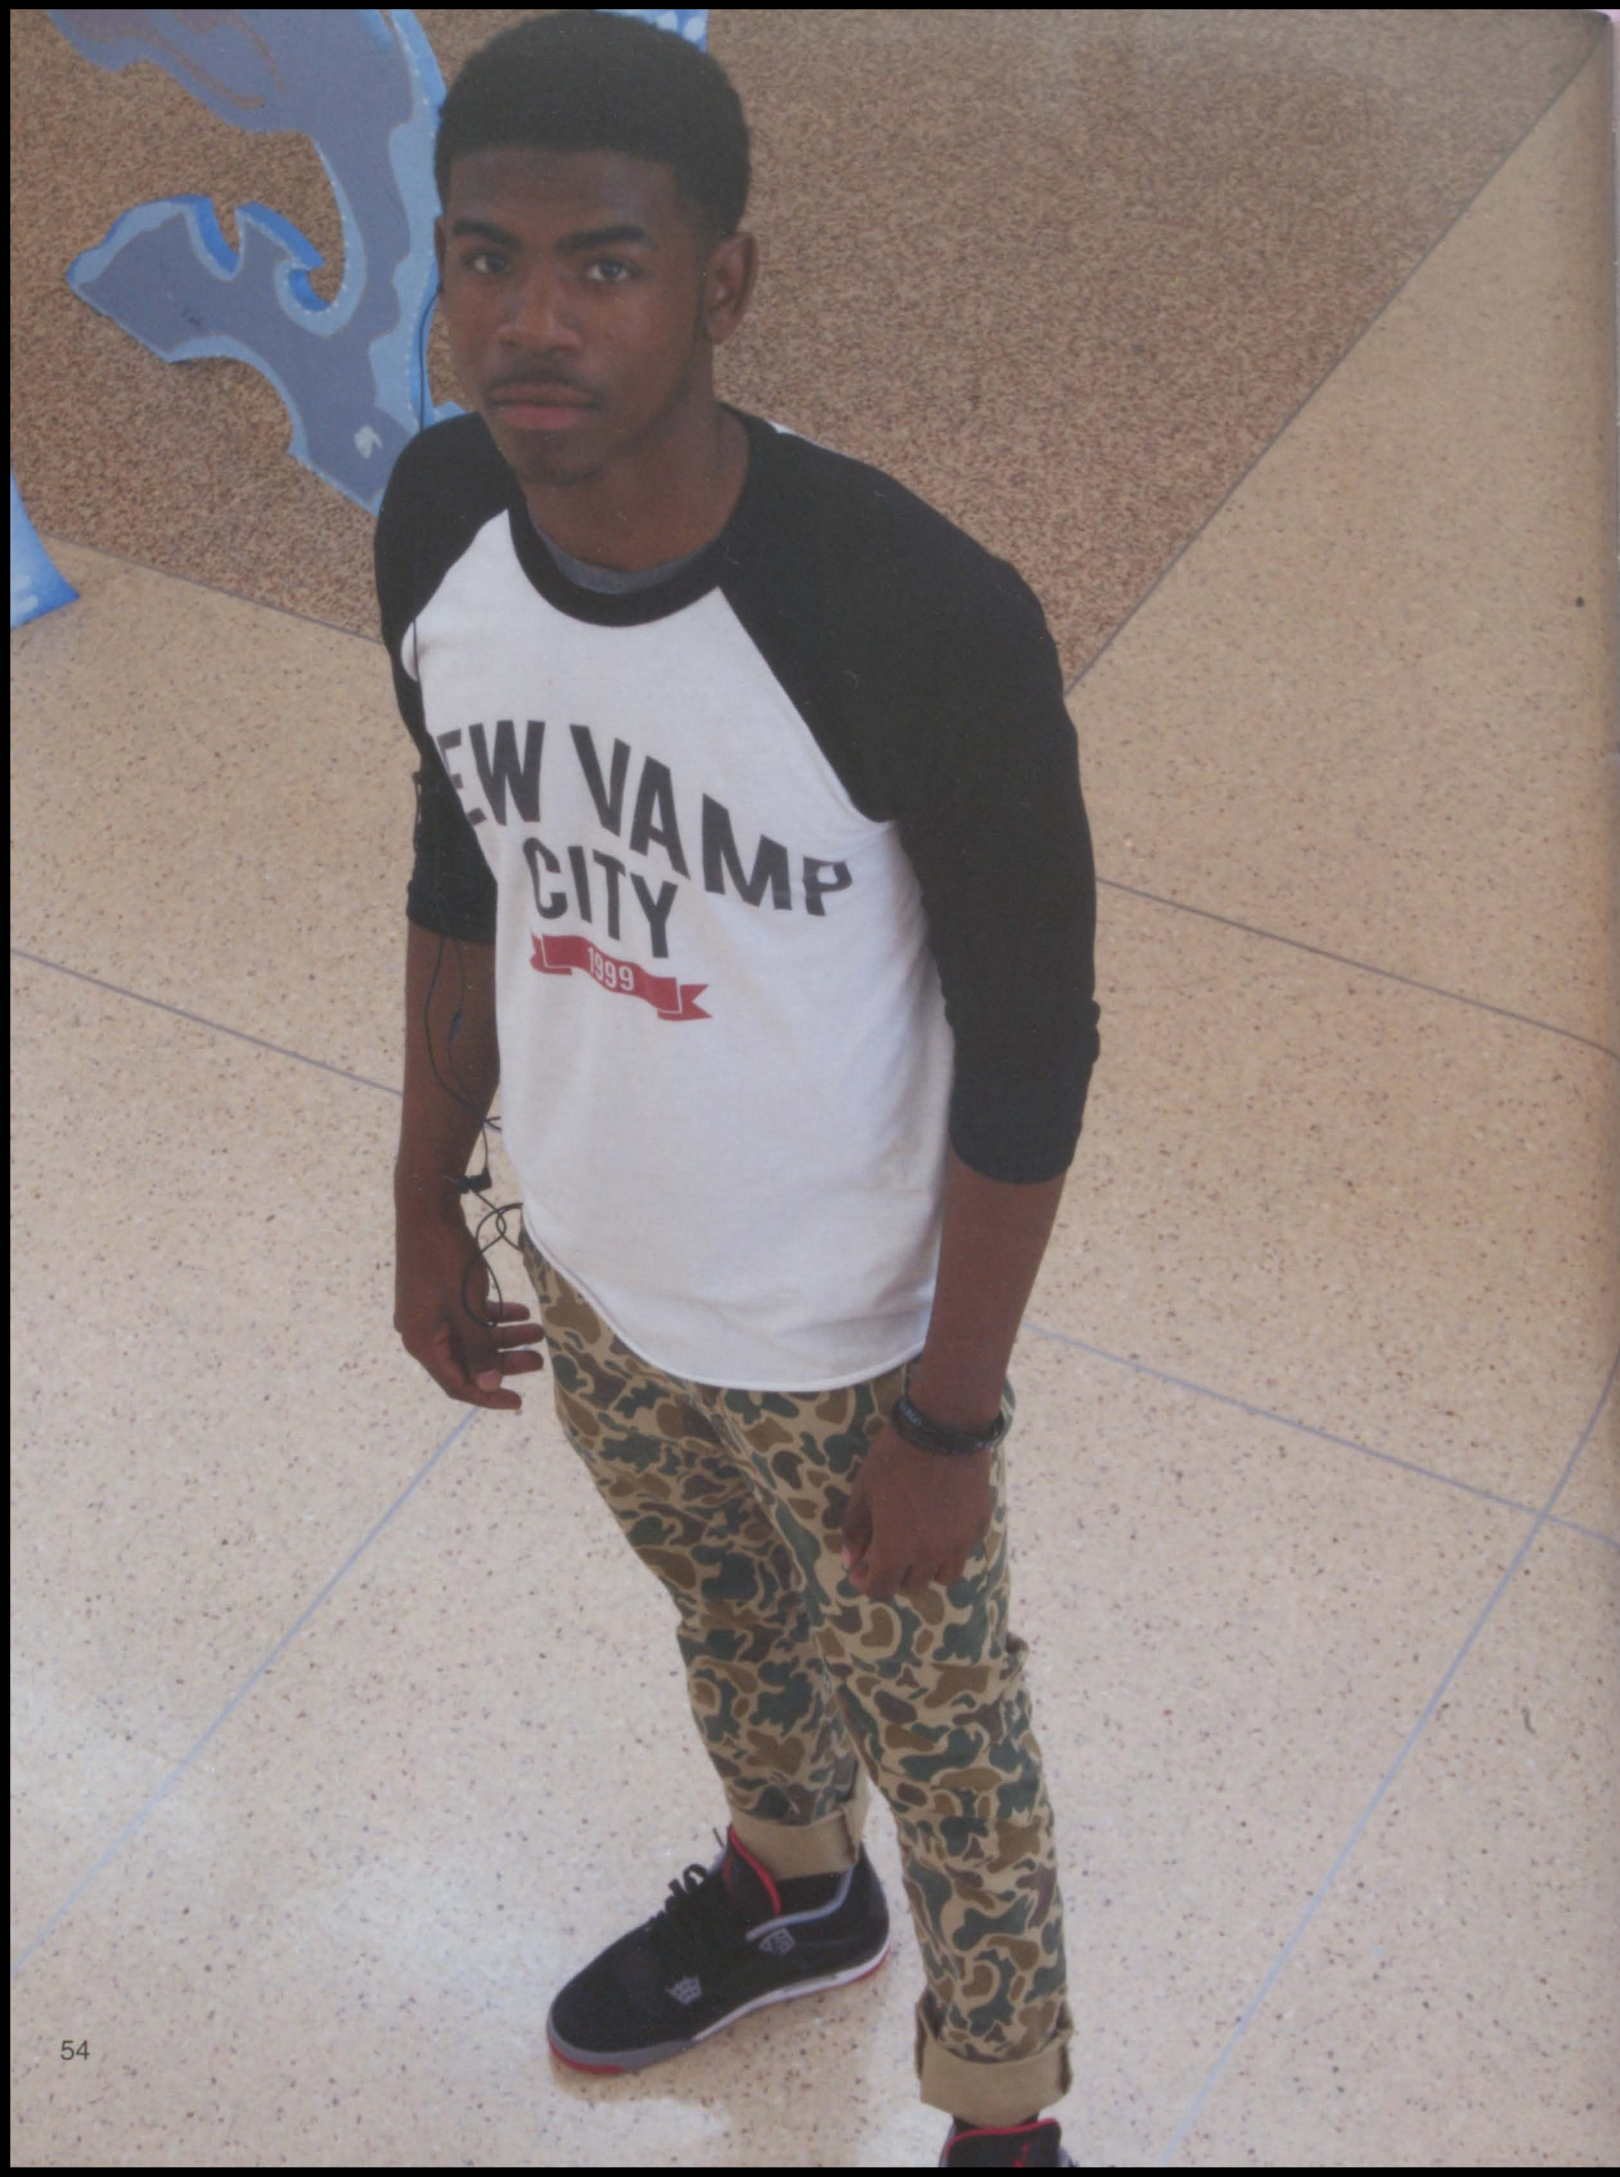

I really liked when he said men should respect their women and that we are brothers and sisters.

When he said that everybody thinks light skin (redbone) people are pretty because you have long hair, but light skin is weak it really made me think.

God bless you

Brianna T. Perry

I felt that Mr. Louis Farrakhan was a very powerful speaker and he definitely captured my attention. His words changed my entire outlook on life simply because they were significant words of wisdom.

According to Mr. Farrakhan, "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD," which meant that the word "can't" should not exist in your vocabulary, especially if you know your roots of where you are from. "The agent of change is YOU." means that no one can force you to make a change. In order to make a change, you have to start with yourself first. Change requires growth, maturity, and being able to listen as well as being humble within you.

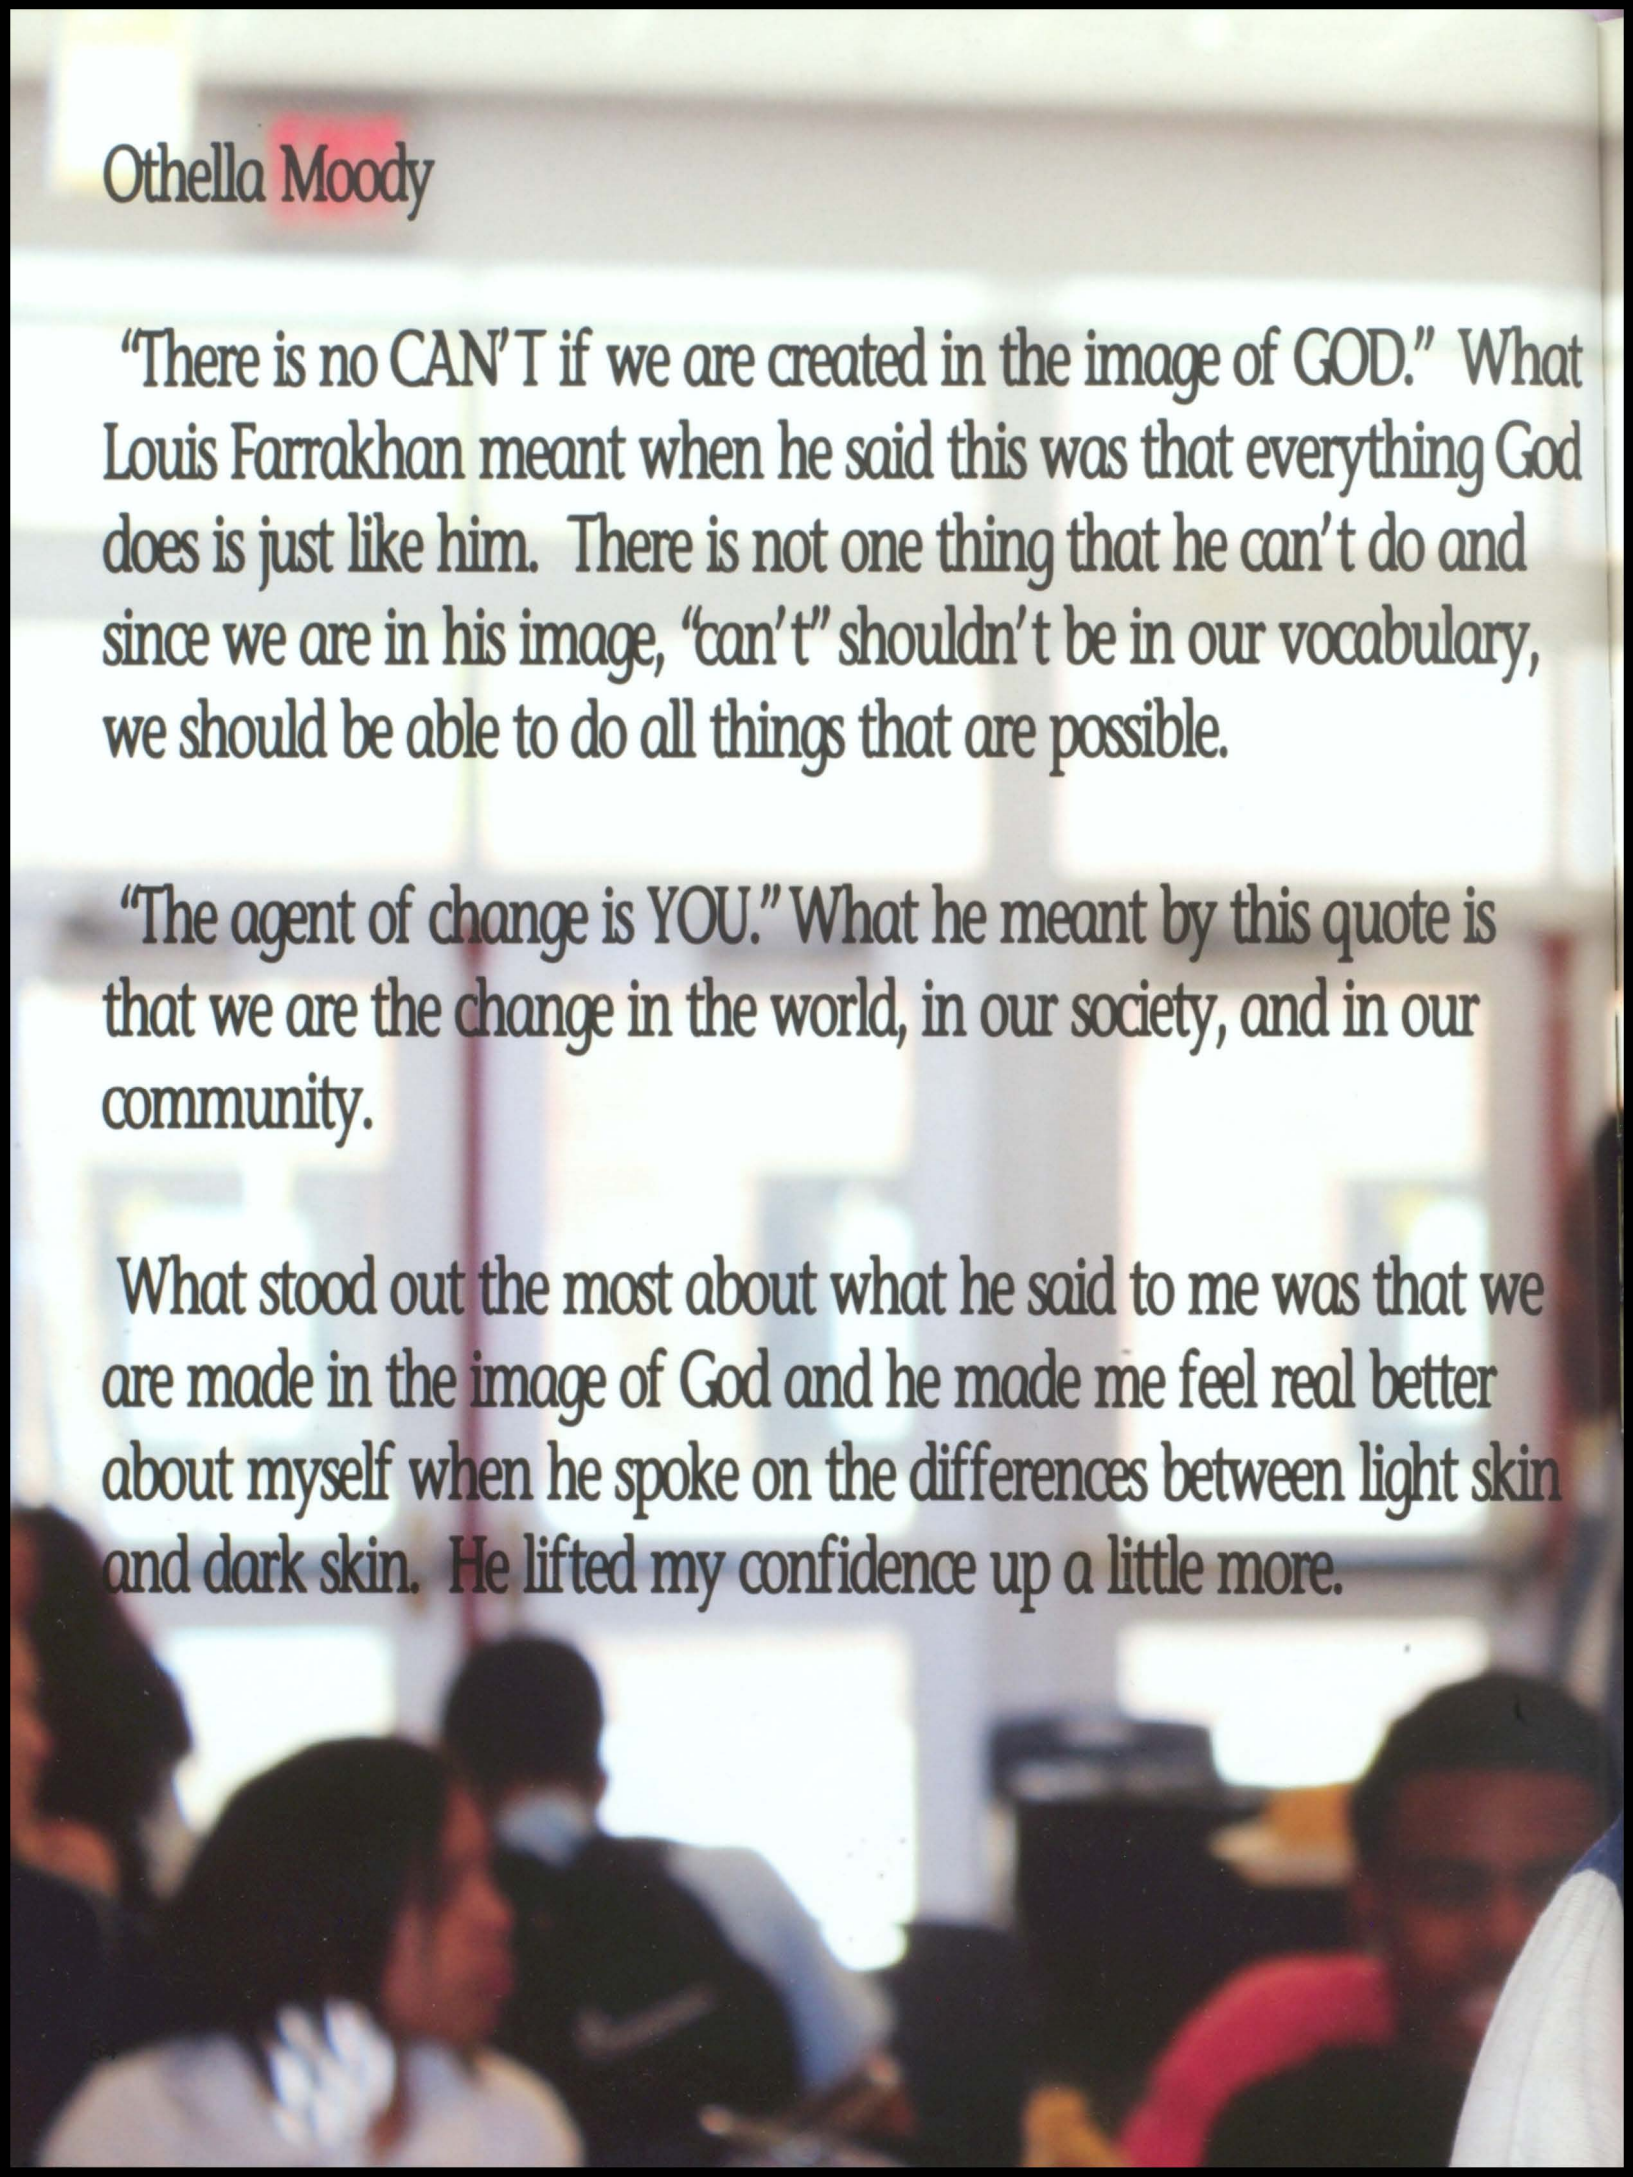

Mateen Harvey

When Mr. Farrakhan stated, "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD," I believe he meant if you were created in the image of God & there's nothing God can't do, there's nothing you can't do.

"The agent of change is YOU." To me he meant the only person that can make the changes for you is you. Which also means you will have to go out and do what's best for you on your own.

The thing that stood out to me the most was when he talked about how you shouldn't say, "I can't." I use to use this word a lot before I actually realized what I was saying. Also, I noticed by saying "I Can't" it was holding me back from putting forth one hundred percent. Instead, I was showing a sign of weakness and giving up. So when he stated, "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD," that really hit home to me.

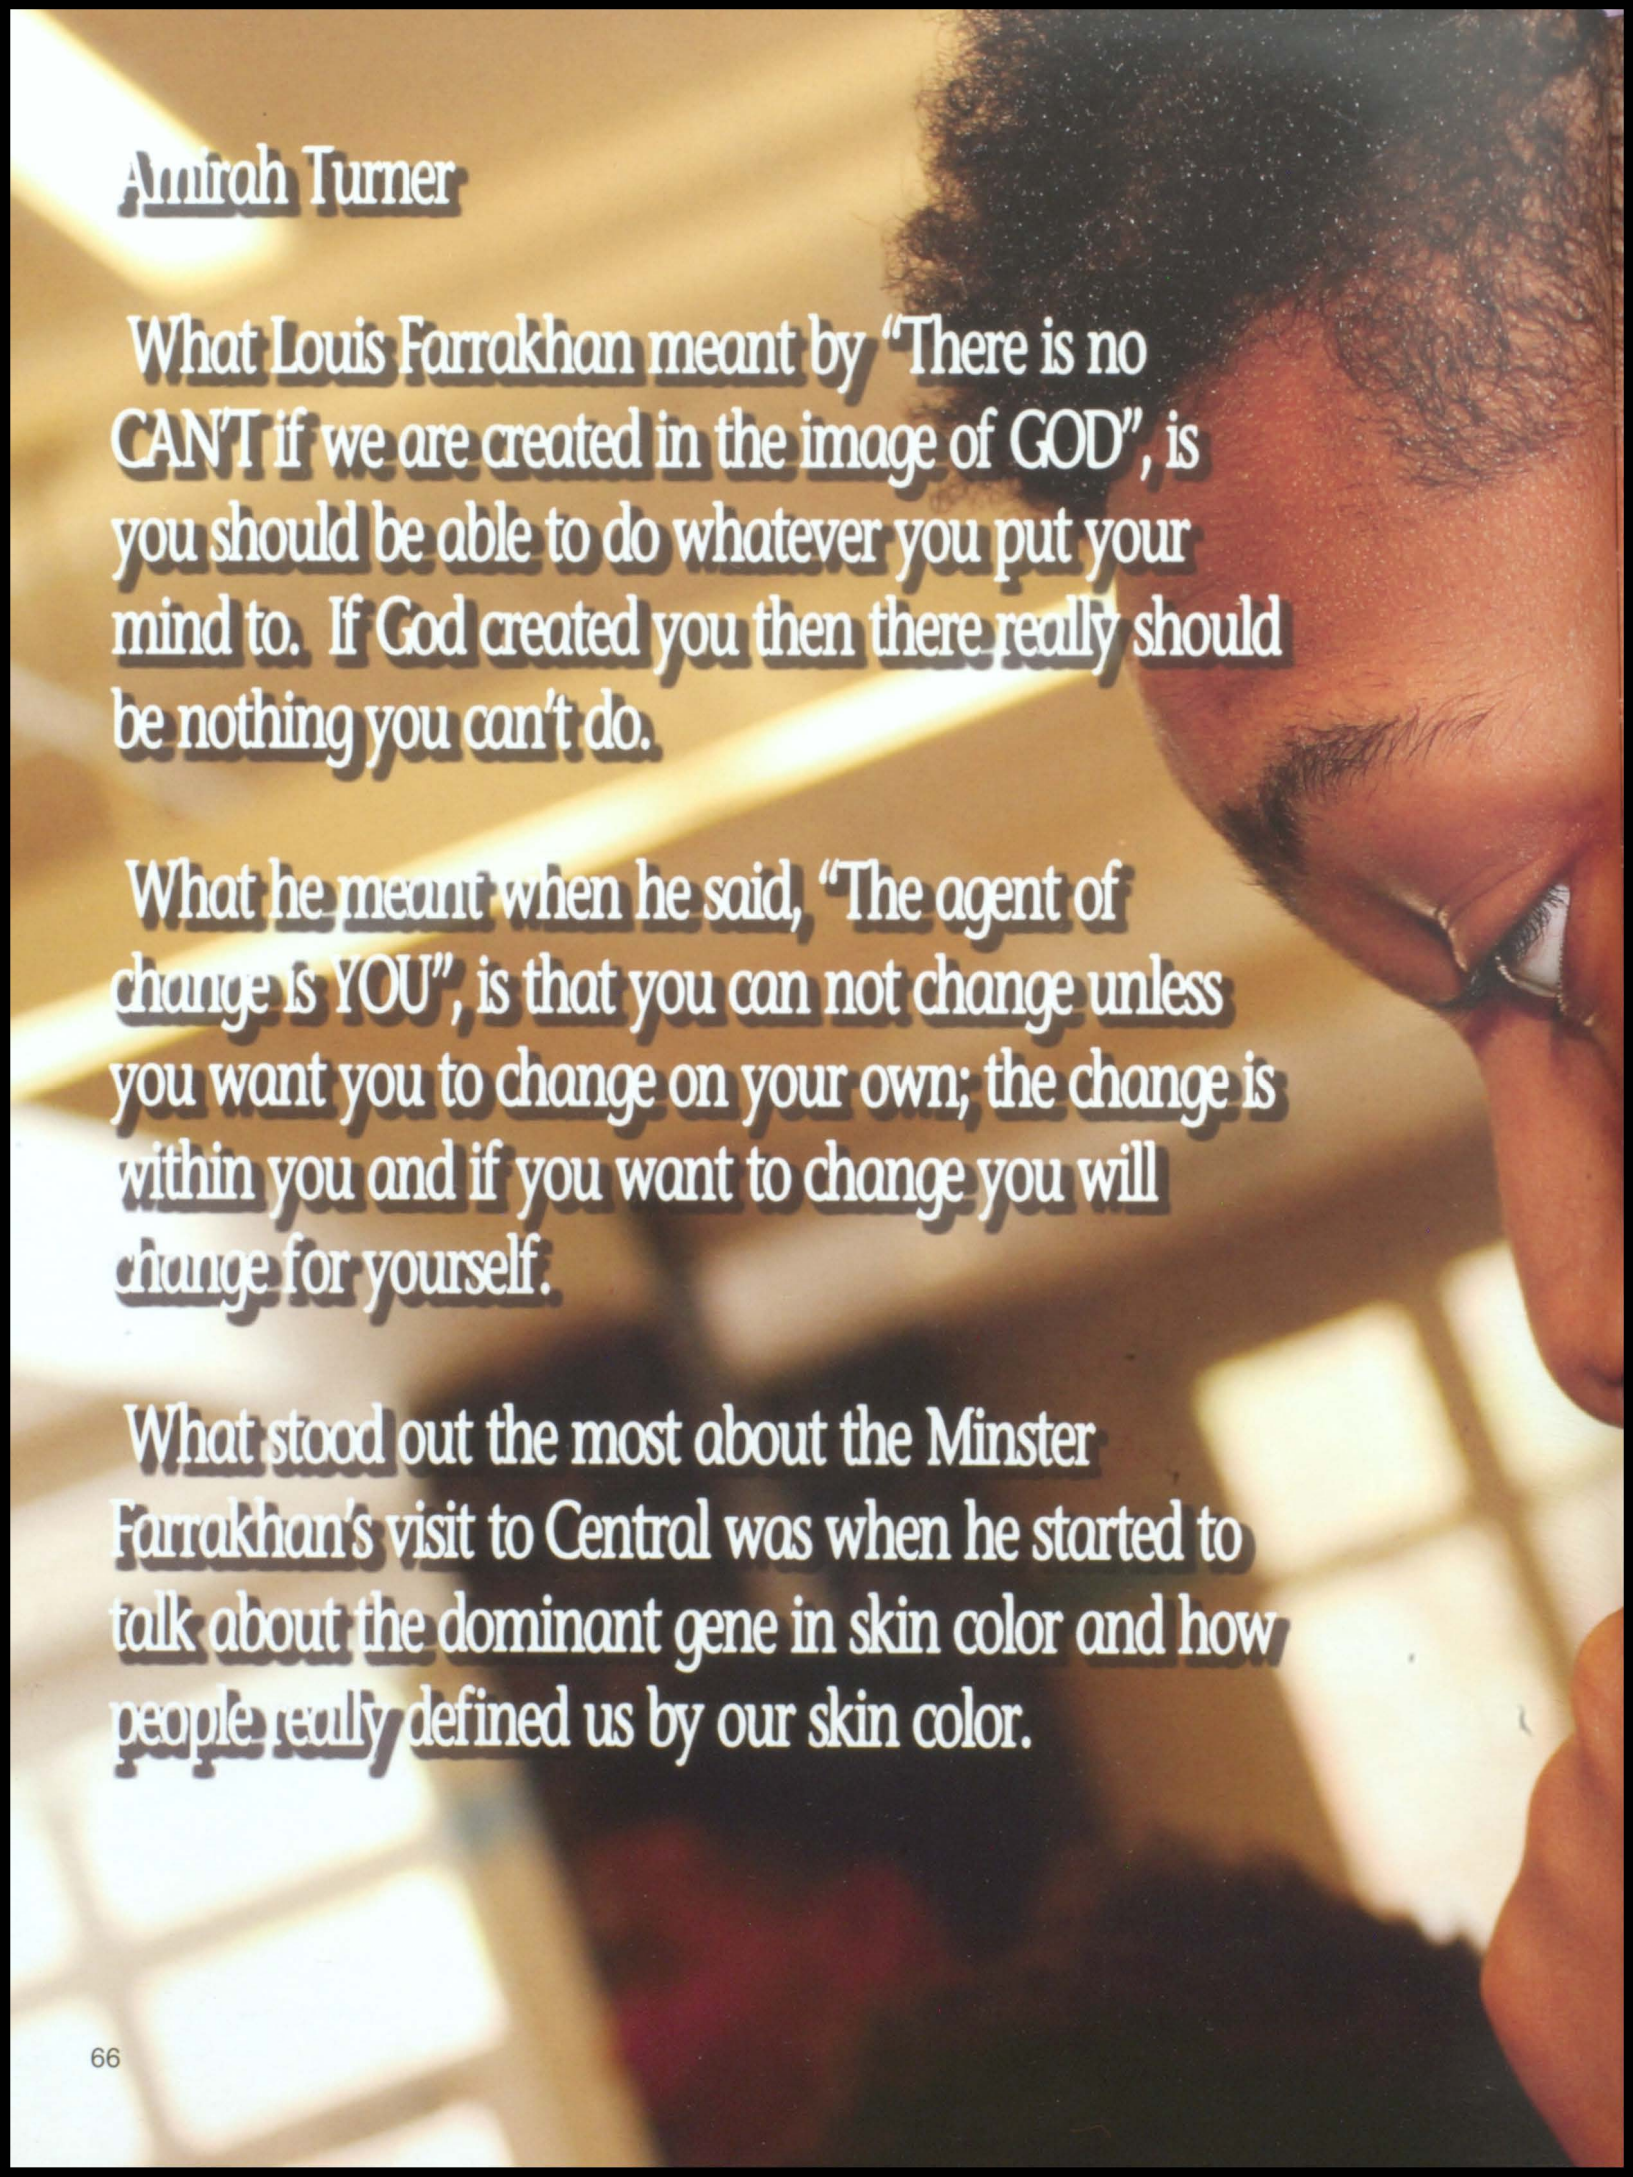

Othella Moody

"There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD." What Louis Farrakhan meant when he said this was that everything God does is just like him. There is not one thing that he can't do and since we are in his image, "can't" shouldn't be in our vocabulary, we should be able to do all things that are possible.

"The agent of change is YOU." What he meant by this quote is that we are the change in the world, in our society, and in our community.

What stood out the most about what he said to me was that we are made in the image of God and he made me feel real better about myself when he spoke on the differences between light skin and dark skin. He lifted my confidence up a little more.

Amirah Turner

What Louis Farrakhan meant by "There is no CAN'T if we are created in the image of GOD", is you should be able to do whatever you put your mind to. If God created you then there really should be nothing you can't do.

What he meant when he said, "The agent of change is YOU", is that you can not change unless you want you to change on your own; the change is within you and if you want to change you will change for yourself.

What stood out the most about the Minster Farrakhan's visit to Central was when he started to talk about the dominant gene in skin color and how people really defined us by our skin color.

Congratulations to the Class of 2013! It has been truly an incredible year. You have just enough of what you need to go out and acquire more. The more you acquire the more you will realize how little you actually have. This should always inspire you to never stop and never be content with having just enough. More importantly you need to understand that what I am pushing you to get has very little to do with the material but with the amount of information you consume, the skills you develop, and the character you build. All of the fears you have now are mostly rooted in ignorance. Cesar Chavez said, "You can't uneducate the person that has learned to read...You can't oppress the person that is unafraid." So read as much as you can and study every opportunity you get and watch your fears begin to wither away. You are entitled to what the world has to offer it is your job to show up and claim it. You were born for this moment revel in it, remember how it feels and recreate this as many times as you possibly can. Take a moment to look around you and see how many of your peers didn't make it to this spot. Think of how difficult things can become so fast, how much work your community needs, and the struggles that your neighbors endure daily. When you have contemplated the magnitude of this situation you will know how important it is that you are successful in your travels and how desperately we need you help transform the condition of not just our city but our country. There is no one coming to fix things. You are the person you've read about in class. You are the person that we allude to in Big Tuesday. You are the answer we are all waiting for. Be beautiful on purpose! ...Big Blue!
